Wilson in War Address To Show Inherent Evils In Central Autocracies

Problem Is Whether America Must Not, for Its Future Safety, Unite With World's Liberal Democracies Against the Rule of the Mailed Fist.

NATION-WIDE OPINION STANDS UNMISTAKABLY FOR DECISIVE ACTION

General Teutonic Conduct of War Has Convinced Many Officials That German Military System, as at Present Directed, Is Permanent Danger to World's Peace.

Washington, March 29.—While it is assumed from the defensive measures already taken by the military arm of the government that President Wilson, in addressing congress next week, will ask for war against Germany or a declaration that a state of war exists, it is known that he will speak along broad lines, dealing lightly with incidents leading up to the present crisis.

Officials feel that the time is past when incidentals should be discussed and henceforth that only fundamental questions of both present and future American safety should be considered.

The general situation has not been changed by the speech of the German Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg today, according to the view tonight of officials who read press reports of the portion of the address dealing with the United States and submarine warfare. Germany, it was said, has consistently attempted to lay the blame for her acts on other nations.

Only complete abandonment of unrestricted submarine warfare could change the attitude of the United States, it has been said semi-officially recently and press reports indicate that the German chancellor did not even discuss that possibility.

Public Opinion Sought.

The president who will meet his cabinet tomorrow for the last time before beginning the actual writing of his message to congress, is hopeful that no time will be lost in organizing the house so that he may deliver his address as soon as possible.

The attitude of both congress and public opinion is sought. As to the former the president is anxious not to transgress the constitutional prerogatives of congress as the war-making body.

Public opinion, it was said here, as indicated by clippings from newspapers in all parts of the country, unmistakably favors decisive action. Belligerency is not confined to the Atlantic and Pacific sections if opinions gathered by the administration are a true index. Demand for action by congress comes also from the interior section between the Alleghanies and the Sierras.

The greatest point under consideration by the administration is whether Germany has not unmistakably shown, through a long succession of violations of international law, that the United States must definitely unite with the liberal democracies of the world against the four most complete autocracies, both for its present and its future safety. All hope has been lost, as shown in the note to Germany as to the treaty of 1828, in the good faith of the present German rulers. The Belgian invasion and deportations, ruthless submarine warfare, attempts to embroil neutral countries in plots and the general conduct of the war, have convinced many officials that the German military system as at present directed is a permanent danger to the world's peace.

Evil of General System.

German plots in this country, running back almost to the beginning of the war and finally culminating in the Zimmermann note to ally Japan and Mexico in war against this country, are regarded as evidence of the evil of the general system. The administration has much material not yet made public and it is understood, moreover, that the complete text of the Zimmermann note has not been published. Further disclosure of intrigues may be expected at any time.

Germany, through the coolness with which she treated the president's proposal to name peace terms, is felt to be the greatest source of danger to world peace. Some officials here who felt her original offer was insincere and merely a play for domestic consumption, believe her refusal to state terms is proof of that contention.

Full co-operation with the allies therefore is generally favored as a necessity to America's future safety. German victory now, it is said, might lead to a direct attack on this country later and would at least necessitate extensive armament. A deadlock, at the same time, would be tantamount to a German victory on the basis that while, after peace, the German union would become stronger, the etente might very easily fall apart and Germany be left relatively world supreme.

Germany Experts Draw.

NEWS PIRATING CHARGED TO INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Hearst Service Restrained From Appropriating News of Associated Press.

New York, March 29.—The application of the Associated Press for a writ of injunction restraining the International News Service from appropriating complainant's news at any time prior to publication by complainant's members was granted by Judge Augustus N. Hand in the federal district court today.

As to the right of the complainant to an injunction restraining the defendant from the appropriation of complainant's news after publication the court states as follows:

"While I am personally satisfied after giving the matter most deliberate and careful consideration that the right exists to prevent the sale by a competing news agency of news which is taken from early publication of complainant's members before a sufficient time has elapsed to afford opportunity for general publication and that the existing practice amounts to unfair trade, yet the matter is one of first impression and my decision cannot be regarded sufficiently free from doubt to justify the granting of preliminary injunction upon this branch of the case."

The effect of this opinion is to leave open for decision upon the final hearing the question whether the Associated Press is entitled to an injunction against the appropriation by the International News Service of news after its publication by the members of the Assoc iated Press.

News Pirating Charged.

On January 4 the Associated Press, through its general counsel, filed a bill of complaint in the United States district court for the southern district of New York, against the International News Service, alleging that the International News Service was engaged in pirating the news of the Associated Press by bribing employees of the Associated Press newspapers to give them the news of the Associated Press before publication, and also by taking from Associated Press newspapers, as fast as their various editions appeared, Associated Press dispatches and sending them out as their own.

Affidavits in support of the bill of complaint were filed, showing that in the office of The Evening News, of Cleveland, Ohio, the telegraph editor of The News was secretly in the pay of the International News Service and was furnishing that organization with the substance of Associated Press news dispatches as soon as received, and that in the office of The New York American representatives of the International News Service were permitted to examine Associated Press news as fast as received.

It was also disclosed that a number of papers receiving the service of the International News Service followed almost instantly the appearance of Associated Press dispatches with like telegrams credited to the International News Service, sometimes textually repeating them and sometimes re-phrasing them.

The action was not brought under any copyright law, but upon the principle of unfair competition, and the common law property right in news was invoked. The case came on for argument upon a motion to show cause why an injunction should not issue. Thereafter numerous affidavits seeking to deny the practices were filed by the defendant and still later affidavits in rebuttal were presented by the Associated Press. The case was submitted to the court on January 30.

Interest Increased.

The case has aroused widespread interest, both in newspaper circles and in the legal profession. In its brief the Associated Press holds that:

"It is entirely immaterial whether the defendant gets our news by stealing it, by bribing employees in confidential relation, by inducing breaches of contract by our members (all of which are acts in and of themselves subject to injunction on independent grounds) or by voluntary revelation from our employees, or by taking it from our bulletins and early editions—so long as the use it makes of the news, however acquired, is to compete unfairly with us, to obtain the fruits of our labor and expenditure free of cost, and deprive us thereof, and so threaten the very existence of the whole business organization of news collection throughout the world.

"It is perfectly consistent with fairness and equity and the business existence of the news-collecting agencies that any one should copy news from any published newspaper or bulletin board and use it any way in which the public ordinarily uses information. In other words, copying news is not unlawful in and of itself, and the defendant therefore argues that it is not unlawful even when done systematically as a method of business competition and as a means of getting the advantage of complainant's labor and expenditure without any payment therefor, beyond the one cent which the newspaper costs, or, if it is a case of copying from a bulletin board, entirely free of expense."

Judge Hand acquits the Associated Press in definite terms of appealing to a court of equity with "unclean hands." It had been charged by the defendant that the Associated Press had been guilty of the same practices as the International News Service.

STEAMER LA TOURAINE REACHES FRENCH PORT

New York, March 29.—The French line passenger steamship La Touraine has arrived safely at a French port, according to a message received today by the line's agents here. The vessel carried 36 passengers, including 17 American citizens.

BRITISH CAPTURE ANOTHER VILLAGE ON FRENCH FRONT

Period of Comparative Calm Sets In Between Arras and Soissons for the First Time Since Advance Started.

TURKS IN PALESTINE DEFEATED BY ENGLISH

Entire Staff of Turkish Division, Including General and 900 Men, Taken in Advance of 15 Miles.

New York, March 29.—(By Associated Press. From European Cables of the Day.)—For the first time since the British and French troops began their seizure of ground between Arras and Soissons, evacuated by the Germans, a period of comparative calm has set in.

The only advance recorded by either the British or French war offices is the capture of the village of Neuville Bourjonval, about 10 miles northwest of Roisel, by British troops.

Only artillery activity is reported from the front held by the French troops, it still being quite violent in Champagne in the sector of Maisons de Champagne, around Hill 304, near Verdun, and in Lorraine near Embermesnil.

In Russia the situation remains unchanged, the Russian and Austro-German armies being virtually inactive, owing to the thaw.

Petrograd reports the repulse of Russian attacks along the Oussia and Csobanyos rivers in Rumania, but says the Russians put down an attempt by the Teutonic allies to advance along the Fokshani-Tecutchiu road.

BRITONS ADVANCE IN PALESTINE.

The British forces in Palestine have made an advance of 15 miles against the Turks, capturing the entire staff of the Fifty-third Turkish division, including a general and 900 men.

Enver Pasha, the Turkish minister of war, has visited German army headquarters to confer with Emperor William, Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, first quartermaster general.

The Austrians are keeping up their offensive against the Italians on the eastern front in the Austro-Italian theater. After having for several days heavily shelled positions on the Carso Front, the Austrians delivered an attack, but met with repulse, according to the Italian war office.

Nothing new has come through concerning the operations in Macedonia.

ALLIES FACING HINDENBURG LINE.

From a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press. With the British Armies in France, Via London, March 29.—The warfare on the western front is becoming somewhat stationary again as the British outposts and patrols have come face to face with the so-called Hindenburg line, where the Germans undoubtedly will make a determined stand. Their position is strong as they have had unlimited time in which to prepare it far from shell fire, so the problem again arises of smashing down this defense with sufficient artillery to permit another move forward.

Minor actions continue all along the line between the German rear guard machine gun detachments and the British infantry and cavalry patrols, but nothing approaching the proportions of a battle has yet developed. The Germans have placed great reliance on their machine guns, as many as a score having been found grouped in one position during the retreat. They also have fortified every possible position in the line of retreat, including barbed wire entanglements about barns and pig pens.

The German heavy artillery is coming into play again from fixed positions back of the Cambrai-St. Quentin line. It is reported that the German emperor recently visited the territory over which the Germans retreated, having come with Field Marshal von Hindenburg and given his approval of the methods adopted during the retreat.

The British have discovered a plot to spread disease among cavalry horsemen, a German agent having been found with a vial of bacteriological cultures in his possession and instructions how to use them. The Germans left behind all manner of traps, of which, however, the British and French received information.

BRITISH CAPTURE ANOTHER VILLAGE.

London, March 29.—The British forces in France have captured the village of Neuville Bourjonval, east of Ytres, according to the official communicaton issued this evening. Heavy casualties were inflicted on the Germans. The statement says:

"The village of Neuville Bourjonval was captured this morning after a short fight in which the enemy lost heavily. We took a few prisoners.

"Our raiding parties entered the enemy's lines during the night east of Arras and in the neighborhood of Neuville-St. Vaast and Neuve Chapelle. Several dugouts were destroyed and casualties were inflicted.

"Two German airplanes were driven down in damaged condition during air fighting yesterday. Three of our machines are missing."

BIG GUNS ACTIVE ON FRENCH FRONT.

Paris, March 29.—The official communication issued by the war office tonight reads:

"From the Somme to the Oise the Juarez, Mexico, March 29.—General Francisco Murguit, commander of the northeastern military zone, issued a decree March 23 ordering that all who sold liquors of any kind be put to death at once, without trial. Copies of this manifesto were received here today in letters from the state capital and it was said in one of these letters that three saloon-keepers at Chihuahua City had been executed for violating the decree, which was made effective March 23 to April 1.

GALLIVAN FIGHTS DIXIE DEMOCRATS

Threatens to Disrupt House Organization Plan Through Opposition to Southerners "Remaining in Saddle."

Washington, March 29.—Factional battle flags were hoisted tonight in both democratic and republican camps in preparation for the conferences tomorrow and Saturday over house organization plans.

The republicans are divided along many lines. While it now is generally conceded that the party will put a full ticket in the field, the progressive, bi-partisan, temporary organization and anti-Mann factions are expected to have much to say before a program is finally agreed upon.

Democrats face a serious problem in the announced opposition of Representative Gallivan, of Massachusetts, a "wet" insurgent generally credited with a score of followers, to the organization plan for reseating old committee chairmen and advancing other committeemen to chairmanships under the seniority rule.

Arriving here today, Mr. Gallivan announced that while he would support Speaker Clark for re-election, he would not go into the democratic caucus, would oppose the democratic organization committee plan and would further urge the naming of several republicans to committee chairmanships. Thus far he has not conferred with any other so-called insurgents, but he said tonight he thought "one or two of the boys" would be with him in his fight.

"Southerners in Saddle."

"I am unalterably opposed to the southern democrats remaining in the saddle throughout the coming congress," Mr. Gallivan said. "They have had virtually all of the choice chairmanships in the past and they should not have them again. This is no time for one section of the country to be controlling the house."

Democrats will caucus tomorrow afternoon and a complete organization plan will be worked out. Unless unexpected changes are made, the tentative arrangements for making committee assignments probably will be adopted.

The republican committee of twenty-seven will meet tomorrow afternoon and prepare its final recommendations to be presented to the republican conference Saturday. It already has adopted a resolution recommending that a committee of fifteen to be headed by the speaker name the committees. This and other recommendations doubtless will be reported to the membership.

Plans not only for organization of the house but also for the conduct of business on the republican side will be threshed out in the republican conference. Regardless of what party organizes the house, the progressive republicans will insist that their membership take a constructive stand on all important measures. Should they dislike a democratic proposal, the progressive element insist they should offer a substitute instead of merely objecting. They also think the party should offer various progressive measures without regard to democratic action.

Lenroot May Run.

The question of who shall be floor leader in case the democrats organize the house also probably will be brought before the meeting. Whether Representative Lenroot, of Wisconsin, the acknowledged progressive republican leader, will be put actively into the race against Representative Mann in case of the re-election of Speaker Clark, is causig much speculation. Mr Lenroot declined today to say whether he would be a candidate under such circumstances. He also declined to discuss the possibility of his entering the speakership contest.

Representative Mann is expected to offer his bipartisan organization plan and Representative Towner's temporary organization project, now supported also by Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, will be discussed.

Representative Martin, of Louisiana, progressive, who has been generally regarded as the pivotal member of the house in the close political fight for the speakership, declined to make any statement as to what side he would vote for in the organization on his arrival here today, but he fraternized at luncheon with a group of republican members. Mr. Martin said that Representative Randall, of California, the prohibitionist, had tried to deliver him to the democratic side, and he announced that he was not pledged and would have no announcement to make, for the present at least.

Representative Lever, of South Carolina, head of the house agriculture committee in the last congress, said the extra session ought to consider only the international situation, pass the left-over appropriation bills as they reached the senate at the last session and then go home. That should be by July 1 at the very latest.

Georgia Congressmen.

Georgia's twelve congressmen, including the three new members, J. W. Overstreet, C. H. Brand and W. W. Larsen, who are already here, are expect-

THOUSANDS GATHER TO WELCOME HOME ATLANTA SOLDIERS

GOVERNOR AND MAYOR GREET SOLDIER BOYS

Two Bands Furnish Music, and After Feast Is Over Dancing Is Enjoyed Until Late at Night.

The Fifth regiment, Battery B., the Georgia Field Hospital corps, and the Second squadron of cavalry were given a royal welcome home last night at the Auditorium, when thousands of citizens gathered to do the soldier boys honor and the leaders of the state and city were present to thank them for their services to the state and to the country, when duty called.

It was one of the largest crowds that has ever thronged the Auditorium. With over a thousand men in khaki sitting at tables, with the galleries and boxes filled, and with the streets outside the building jammed by those who had not been able to get in, it looked as if the larger part of Atlanta's population was present.

The galleries were crowded with mothers, wives and sweethearts and hundreds of others who came to the Auditorium just to show their appreciation of the men who had volunteered for service when it seemed the United States would have to go to war with Mexico, and who are still in the service awaiting the outcome of the present tense situation between the United States and Germany.

From the moment Governor Harris entered the big hall, on the arm of Colonel Orville H. Hall, of the Fifth, which was the signal for the festivities to start, until the last private and his best girl had caught the last car homeward, every effort was made to show the Fifth that each and every member is welcome and that his services have been appreciated.

Then the Bands Played.

At the appointed time for the big banquet to get under way, the bands, one from the Georgia Military academy and one from Georgia Tech, struck up a martial air. A hush fell upon the throngs of people who were crowding into every conceivable corner, and the big doorway leading into the banquet hall was cleared.

Keeping time with the music Colonel Hall and Governor Harris marched in and to the seats appointed to them. Following Governor Harris and Colonel Hall came Mayor Candler, followed by Colonel Noyes, of the Seventeenth regulars, from Fort McPherson.

Then came the boys of the Fifth, marching to positions beside the 12 long tables which had been placed lengthwise of the hall. At a bugle signal they were seated and the banquet started.

President Ivan E. Allen, of the chamber of commerce, introduced Mayor Asa G. Candler, who in turn called upon Governor Harris for the principal address of the evening.

"Members of the Fifth regiment, officers, ladies and gentlemen," began Governor Harris. "We are here, as Atlantans and as Georgians, for the purpose of welcoming home as brave, as loyal and as true a set of men as have ever gone from any state to serve their country.

"When the Fifth regiment left Atlanta they were presented with their colors, the colors of the State of Georgia, under which they were going to fight, if necessary, and if necessary to die for their state and country.

Colors Returned Unsullied.

"In giving those colors to these men they were asked only one thing, that they bring them back with honor.

"Our colors have been returned to us, and with them the knowledge that the honor of the state has been kept unsullied and that every duty has been ably performed.

"It is true that the Fifth regiment did not have to cross the Mexican border and did not have to carry them under fire, and yet the hardships which they have undergone and the experience which they have had has been a true test of manhood in every sense of the word.

"Because of this valiant service," concluded Governor Harris, "it is with the greatest pleasure that I, as chief executive of the state, welcome these men back to us, knowing that in whatever emergency might arise in the future they will continue to carry their colors with honor and to serve their state as men and Georgians."

Mayor Candler was next called upon by Toastmaster Allen.

In welcoming the soldiers to their home city as mayor Mr. Candler told them he was performing one of the most pleasing duties which has fallen to his lot since becoming chief executive of Atlanta.

"It is with the greatest pleasure and most profound appreciation for the service which has been rendered Atlanta that I join in welcoming you men back to your home," said Mayor Candler. "You have performed a duty well and have acquitted yourselves as men and soldiers."

Medals Are Presented.

Mayor Candler then presented the medals, given by the citizens of Atlanta to the boys of the Fifth, to the officers of the regiment. First Colonel Hall was presented with a medal and then they were given to Major James O. Seamans, commanding the second squadron of cavalry; Major Cornelius F. Holton,

Reichstag Speech Shows No Indication of Change In Teuton U-Boat Policy

ARMORED MACHINE PLANNED FOR FIFTH

Movement Started to Purchase Car and Present It to the Atlanta Regiment for Use in Event of War.

A movement was launched yesterday to purchase an armored motor car and present it to the Fifth regiment for use in the event of war.

It is pointed out that regiments in Ohio, Massachusetts, Illinois and a number of other states are equipped with these cars and that they have proven invaluable for reconnoissance work. Such a car, it is stated, will be of great aid to the Fifth regiment should the men ever have to engage in battle.

The movement to present one of these cars to the Fifth was started Thursday, when Dick Jemison, representing Poole & McCollough Motor company, distributors of the King Eight in Atlanta, appeared at a committee meeting, which was making the final arrangements for the banquet to the Atlanta soldiers last night, and stated that this company was willing to contribute $1,000 towards the purchase of a King light armored car, which will cost about $7,000.

Mr. Jemison exhibited a large picture of the car and a check for $1,000 which the company is willing to subscribe, just as soon as the movement is given an official start.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Asa Candler, a committee from the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the Atlanta Ad Men, and the officers of the Fifth. The plan was received with interest, but as the meeting was nearly over when Mr. Jemison made his appearance, and as the committee's duties ceased with the banquet last night, no action was taken.

Through the efforts of Captain Heldt, of the local army recruiting station, the war department has been asked to send one of the armored cars to Atlanta shortly to aid in the exploitation of recruiting work in this section.

Congress recently authorized the purchase of two armored motor cars for the marine corps and after an exhaustive search and the severest of tests, the King-Eight chassis was se-

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Meteorologist, Weather Bureau.

Says That if America Considers Submarine Warfare as Cause for War, Responsibility Will Not Be Germany's.

HE DECLARES GERMANY HAS NEVER DESIRED WAR AGAINST AMERICA

Chancellor Claims Germans Were Forced to Take Up Submarine as Weapon of Defense Because of "Illegal Blockade."

Berlin, March 29.—(Via Sayville.)—"Germany never had the slightest intention of attacking the United States of America and does not have such intention now. It never desired war against the United States of America and does not desire it today," was the declaration made by the German imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg in a speech in the reichstag today. The chancellor made important declarations concerning Germany's policy toward the United States and Russia.

"How did these things develop?" asked the chancellor in speaking of the relations with the United States. He then proceeded to answer the question by reviewing the causes which led up to the German use of submarines in unrestricted warfare. Declaring that Germany had undertaken unrestricted submarine warfare for its defense, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg said:

"If the American nation considers this a cause for which to declare war against the German nation, with which it has lived in peace for more than 100 years, if this action warrants an increase of bloodshed, we shall not have to bear the burden of responsibility for it."

"U. S. TO DECIDE FOR WAR OR PEACE."

Concerning German relations with the United States the chancellor, whose speech is reported by the Overseas News agency (the German official news bureau) said:

"Within the next few days the directors of the American nation will be convened by President Wilson for an extraordinary session of congress in order to decide the question of war or peace between the American and German nations.

"Germany never had the slightest intention of attacking the United States of America and does not have such intention now. It never desired war against the United States of America and does not desire it today.

"How did these things develop? More than once we told the United States that we made unrestricted use of the submarine weapon expecting that England could be made to observe, in her policy of blockade, the laws of humanity and international agreements. This blockade policy—this I expressly recall has been called 'illegal and indefensible' (the imperial chancellor here used the English words) by President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing. Our expectations, which we maintained during eight months have been disappointed completely; England not only did not give up her illegal and indefensible policy of blockade, but uninterruptedly intensified it. England, together with her allies, arrogantly rejected the peace offers made by us and our allies and proclaimed her war aims which aim at our annihilation and that of our allies.

"Then we took unrestricted submarine warfare into our hands; we had to for our defense.

"If the American nation considers this a cause for which to declare war against the German nation with which it has lived in peace for more than one hundred years, if this action warrants an increase of bloodshed, we shall not have to bear the responsibility for it. The German nation, which feels neither hatred nor hostilitiy against the United States of America, shall also bear and overcome this."

STATES POSITION REGARDING PRUSSIA.

The imperial chancellor also referred to Germany's attitude toward the recent events in Russia and recalled in former times the honored friendship between the two countries. He said, however, that this friendship had ended with the death of Alexander II.

Emperor Nicholas had more and more drifted into the entent's wake and into pan-Slavic currents and had finally become a partisan of the war party, omnipotent under the Russian autocratic regime.

"Thus," said the chancellor, "in the fateful days of July, 1914, the Russian emperor declined to listen to the appeal made by the German emperor. One of the legendary reports disseminated with especial emphasis by our enemies is that it was the 'German' government which assisted the autocratic reactionary policy in Russia against all the movements of liberty. One year ago, I declared here in the reichstag that this asseveration was directly contrary to the facts.

"When Russia in 1905, by the Japanese war and the resulting revolution, had been involved in distress, it was the German emperor who, on account of personal relations of friendship, urgently advised the Russian emperor no longer to oppose the justified wishes of his nation for reforms. Emperor Nicholas preferred other roads. In Russia, had attention been concentrated on internal reconstruction, there would not have been room for the restless policy of expansion which finally led to this war and which has changed the old regime so much that now it is hard even to do justice to natural, human pity for the downfallen house of the rulers.

"Nobody can tell how things shall develop, but our attitude toward Russian events is clearly outlined. We shall also follow the principle that we never meddle with the internal problems of other countries. It now is maliciously reported that Germany wants to annihilate the hardly conquered freedom of the Russian nation and that the German emperor wants to re-establish the rule of the czar over his enslaved subjects. All these are merely lies and slander, as I here expressly state.

"How the Russian nation wants to construct its home is only the business of the Russian nation and we shall not meddle with it. The only thing that we hope is that in Russia foundations may develop that will make her the strong and firm bulwark of peace."

CHINA ACTING UNDER PRESSURE.

With reference to Chinese relations, the chancellor said:

"Our relations with China had always been of the most friendly nature, and if these relations have actually been terminated by the Chinese government, I need not tell you this is not by the free resolve of the Chinese government, but that it has acted under pressure of our enemies.

"Financial difficulties, which could not be mastered during the war by China, also played a fair part in it. Our enemies' object also is to destroy our trade in China and to appropriate without labor what has been established there during many years of German efficiency and German industry.

"The result of the war—as I confidently hope—will give us the opportunity to rebuild what has been destroyed and to rebuild it at the expense of our enemies. Then our friendly relations with China will revive, provided that China will preserve until then the necessary force of resistance against the greed and egotism of her present protectors."

REICHSTAG ADOPTS EMERGENCY BUDGET.

London, March 29.—Reuter's Amsterdom correspondent quoting Berlin advices says the reichstag has adopted all three readings of the emergency budget. Both socialist parties voted against the measure.

"Eduard Bernstein, socialist," says the advices, "delivered a speech justifying his opposition to the budget. He said experience had strengthened his distrust in the government. America was converted into an enemy and neutrals filled with displeasure toward Germany. A good and sincere peace must be striven for at the speediest moment. Herr Bernstein added that the events in Russia under the leadership of the socialists strengthened the confidence that the social democracy was able to fulfill its old peaceful program."

Dr. Peter Spahn, leader of the Catholic centre party, denied that the reichstag, as charged by the Prussian herrenhaus, had meddled with things reserved for the emperor and the bundesrath. He added:

"If America comes to war with Germany we have confidence in the ability of the leaders in the army and navy to settle with her.

"Russia must be judged soberly and we must not interfere."

The socialist, Gustav Noske, said that Russian apprehension that Germany would seek to restore the regime of Emperor Nicholas must be officially dispelled.

Continuing, Herr Noske expressed the desire for immediate peace with Russia and declared that the peace tendency there would become a determining factor with the government. The German socialists, he said, had been advised from abroad to start a revolution. Acceptance of that advice would entail the greatest misery to the workers.

Herr Mueller, progressive, emphasized that Germany would not interfere with internal development of Russia. The Russian people, he asserted, were evidently striving toward peace.

The American government, continued the speaker, refused to recognize the sea barrier as an impassable fact; nevertheless, the progressives would regret war with the United States.

Discussing the attitude of the Prussian herrenhaus, Herr Mueller contended that the members of the house had started the new submarine campaign from fear of a new orientation. This statement caused a commotion, after which Herr Mueller proceeded, declaring that the Bavarian king emphasized that the people were ripe for a general equal and direct franchise.

Fitzgerald Oil Co. Lets the Contract To Put Up Derrick

Fitzgerald, Ga., March 29.—(Special.) The contract for the erection of the big derrick of the Fitzgerald-Pennsylvania Oil and Gas company has been let and the actual work of drilling for oil will begin just as soon as the machinery and expert drillers can be secured.

J. H. Harris, president of the company, made a flying trip to Fitzgerald and signed the contract with Fred Bigham for the derrick, which will be constructed at once.

"It is our intention and desire," said Mr. Harris, "to get into the ground just as soon as possible. We have not determined positively, as yet, but I believe we will purchase the drilling apparatus outright and employ experts to operate it. In this way we can continue the drilling of wells just as fast as the drill can be moved.

"We have no idea of stopping at the completion of one well, but will drill others immediately until the entire anticline is covered. Why, certainly we feel sure of finding oil, and that is why we contemplate buying our own machinery. Then we can drill so much faster, and we will have an oil field here in Ben Hill county that will be the wonder of the world before another year rolls around unless all signs and indications fail."

There is great interest here in the drilling of these oil wells, for residents of this section have felt sure that the oil was here, and all are delighted that southern men are going to make the tests.

Will Open School At State Capitol To Boost Farming

Agricultural Committee School of the National League of Woman's Service Will Hold First Session Thursday.

Following the organization in Atlanta last Saturday of the Georgia division of the National League for Woman's Service, the agricultural committee of the Georgia division will conduct an agricultural school in the state senate chamber at the capitol.

This school will begin next Thusday afternoon and will last for a period of six weeks or longer.

The object of the school will be to encourage gardening and farming, in both the city and the country, in the present crisis which faces the United States, with a view of fully developing the agricultural resources of the state, upon the full development of which the state must largely depend in the event of war or preparation for war. Lectures will be delivered by leading authorities in the state upon gardening, stock raising, poultry raising, sheep raising, and, in fact, every branch of agriculture. Every effort will be made to make the school of the greatest practical value, and questions and inquiries upon any point pertaining to agriculture or gardening will be welcomed.

Agricultural Committee School.

The school is to be known as the Agricultural Committee School of the National League of Woman's Service, and will be conducted under the auspices of the agricultural committee of the Georgia division of the national organization.

The Georgia division was organized in Atlanta last Saturday by Mrs. Coffin Van Rensslelaer, of New York. Mrs. W. L. Peel is state chairman of the Georgia division. Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, is chairman of the agricultural committee, while Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, regent of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., and president of the woman's department of the Southeastern Fair association, is co-chairman of this committee.

The faculty of the school will be composed of the lecturers from the United States department of agriculture; from the state department of agriculture; from the state college of agriculture; from the state experiment station, and leading citizens who are interested in agriculture.

First Session.

"The first session of the school will be next Thursday afternoon, in the senate chamber of the capitol, and to it all the men and women of Atlanta interested in agriculture are invited," stated Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin Thursday in conference with Mrs. Peel relative to the work of the National League for Women's Service.

"Mrs. Black called upon Governor Harris and Commissioner Brown, of the state department of agriculture, when the details of the program of the school were worked out," stated Mrs. Lumpkin.

"Governor Harris at once extended to the ladies the use of the senate chamber for the school, and Commissioner Brown assured the ladies the immediate co-operation of his department.

"In the work of this committee one can see the force of that co-ordinating of women's forces, the first purpose of the League for National Service," stated Mrs. Peel, in congratulating the activity of the state committee on agriculture.

In this committee of agriculture is seen the value of this co-ordination since the chairman of the committee is the president of one organization, the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and the chairman is Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, president of the department of the Southeastern Fair association. She is also regent of the Joseph Habersham chapter of the D. A. R., and former president of the City Federation of Women's Club in Atlanta.

"We have just completed our women's agricultural rallies in the state," said Mrs. Black, in discussing the enterprise of the agricultural school to be started in the senate chamber, "and we will have a good opportunity for the summing up of our efforts. I shall invite the assistance of the women in the twelve congressional districts of Georgia to aid in the work, and in the initiation of similar schools in their districts—for along no line should our preparedness in the present crisis more surely hinge than upon the development of agriculture, and the raising of food products in the town and country."

Major Guinn's Indorement.

Major R. J. Guinn, president of the board of education, heartily indorses the School for Agriculture here as a practical movement in the line of preparedness. He offered to the agricultural committee the services of the expert in gardening who arrives next week, to initiate the department of gardening in the bureau of educational research and vocational training.

Major Guinn also stated that he would extend an invitation for the committee to Hon. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, to address the school during his prospective visit here in May.

Citizens Interested.

Hearty indorsement was also given the school by Mell R. Wilkinson. Mr. Wilkinson is chairman of the citizens' committee co-operating with the federal government for preparedness, the first principle of their work being along agricultural lines, in response to a telegram from the United States department of agriculture received Thursday and urging "the matter of securing food crop seeds for farmers at reasonable rates. It is desirable from every point of view that the south increase its foodstuffs and feedstuffs. It certainly should be self-sustaining."

'NEWS' QUARANTINE WAS AGREED UPON

Capital Considers Detention of Belgian Relief Corps as Proper—Not Believed Whitlock Will Be Held.

Washington, March 29.—Subjection of Americans of the Belgian relief commission to a "news quarantine" prior to their departure from behind the German lines was explained at the state department today as a proper course agreed upon when the relief workers were invited to remain in Belgium.

Reports that Brand Whitlock, minister to Belgium, and other diplomatic officers, also would be detained were not credited, as assurances have been received to the contrary. The department issued this statement:

"There appears to be some misapprehension as to the delay in the withdrawal of American members of the commission for relief in Belgium. Shortly after the break in relations with Germany negotiations were instituted with a view to providing for the continuation of the relief work. The German authorities in Belgium invited the American members to remain, and gave written assurances that they might leave whenever they desired to give up the work. In view of the fact that these men are in the fighting zone, however, it was stipulated that they should, upon relinquishing their work, remain for a period of two or three weeks in some German city on their way to Switzerland, in order to prevent the transmission of any fresh information. This condition was accepted by the relief commission.

"It is not anticipated that the American diplomatic or consular officers will be detained during this period, as written assurances have been received through the Spanish government that they will be permitted to proceed directly to Switzerland."

AMERICAN LEGATION COMPLETELY ISOLATED.

London, March 29.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam, says:

"Frontier correspondents hear from Brussels that the American legation is completely isolated and under a guard of German police. It is rumored that the Germans contemplate taking the minister (Brand Whitlock) and his staff to Germany.

"The Americans in Brussels have been notified that they cannot leave Belgium before three months at the earliest."

The dispatch adds that the correspondents have learned that the German authorities in Belgium have warned the relief commission that they will not allow its food barges to go further than Tournai, but that barges for Lille may travel at their own risk. It is said the warning was given in view of the military requirements, which may compel the Germans to evacuate more of northern French territory.

A Hague dispatch March 28 declared authoritatively that the German government intended to ask American officials and relief workers of the American Commission for Relief in Belgium to submit to a period of "news quarantine," the time not to exceed four weeks, in order to prevent military information from leaking out. This was intended to apply also to Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, and his staff.

TENNESSEE MOB FOILED BY SHERIFF'S DAUGHTER

Nashville, Tenn., March 29.—Mrs. Lena Laylor, daughter of Sheriff J. W. Davidson, of Gibson county, played an important part in the foiling of a mob at Trenton, Tenn., early this morning, according to a dispatch. The mob appeared at the Trenton jail about midnight and demanded Charley May, a negro charged with eloping to Illinois recently with a 15-year-old white girl. While Sheriff Davidson debated with the mob, the daughter slipped through the mob and got the jail keys. On discovering that they had been foiled the mob dispersed.

Big Jump Is Shown In Annual Food Bill Of Average Family

Washington, March 29.—The annual food bill of the average family has grown from $339.30 in 1913 to $425.54 at present, the department of labor announced today in a review of food prices. In ten years the department's experts estimate, the advance in the cost of food has so far outstripped wage increases that the workman who drew $3 a day in 1907 now finds himself just 69 cents a day worse off.

The heaviest increase in food prices during the last four years is shown in potatoes, the cost of which has risen from $18.96 to $44.69. Other large increases are in eggs, from $33.01 to $43.07; flour, $15.12 to $25.40; butter, $45.72 to $54.78. Of the whole list of foods only sirloin and round steak are cheaper than five years ago.

In the period from January 15 to February 15, food prices took a 4 per cent jump. Onions led with a 77 per cent increase. Potatoes went up 30 per cent. Eggs alone decreased in price.

It is estimated that if a dollar's worth of food bought in 1907 weighed ten pounds it would weigh today a trifle more than seven pounds.

"Cold storage, re-billing, re-shipping and withholding of commodities from market are expected to contribute to the present abnormal rise in the prices of food," says the department's statement. "Whether some persons have conspired to engross the markets the department of labor cannot state. But the reports of the bureau of labor statistics seem to lend some color to such an opinion viewed in the light of conditions revealed by a comparison of figures through a range of years."

WILSON TO SHOW EVILS IN CENTRAL AUTOCRACIES

draw. Why she seems so indifferent to this country's entrance into the war causes much interest. Some officials have predicted for more than a year that Germany would attempt to force this nation into the conflict at the last moment, first in order that her autocracy might save its face before the people by surrendering to the whole world, and second because this country would probably be a generous enemy.

With the United States drawn into the war through no desire of her own, the exact manner of American participation is undecided. The sending of an army to Europe or the provision of a huge credit of from $1,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 are both being discussed. As for military participation nothing has been determined and decision must await actual entrance in the war.

General alliances with the entente nations are not contemplated. The United States plans to maintain its freedom of action just as far as possible. In a naval and military sense there will, of course, be full co-operation, but beyond that the country will not assume unlimited liability for the allies' aims. The United States will seek as far as possible to ameliorate the bitterness of the present war and prevent its ending from generating future wars.

WILSON INFORMED OF RIGHT TO RAISE FORCE OF 700,000

Washington, March 29.—Plans to forward further preparedness measures for the army today began to assume definite form.

How an increased armed force may be promptly secured for the present emergency, as well as universal training as a national policy, were discussed by President Wilson with Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, chairman of the senate military committee. At the same time Secretary Baker and administration leaders in congress considered legislation needed immediately for the military establishment.

Senator Chamberlain told the president that he believed the executive has authority, without further action by congress, to raise at once an army of more than 700,000 men by increasing the regular army to war strength and calling out all of the national guard, at war strength, with co-operation from state executives.

There was no intimation that the president was considering such a step immediately, but the whole field of measures necessary to secure a larger force was discussed.

Budget of War Department.

For the present needs the war department, Secretary Baker said, has decided to submit to congress a budget containing virtually the same provisions as the regular army appropriation bill, which failed at the last session. Estimates for the expense in connection with an enlarged army or for any emergency activities will be presented later.

Senator Chamberlain also agreed to expedite the bill in the senate. He said he would not again offer his universal training bill as a rider if it would delay prompt action on the supply measure.

Senator Chamberlain asked the president to indorse the general principle of compulsory training in his forthcoming message to congress. The president, it was said, gave no indication of his probable course. He is understood to have some objection to the Chamberlain plan.

After the conference the senator said he was "still hopeful" of administration indorsement of his measure and also expressed optimism over prospects of passage by the senate of some form of universal training measure. Several of the senators, he said, who formerly opposed the plan, now favor it.

To Raise Age Limit.

As a result of his talk with the president, Senator Chamberlain expects to make several important amendments to his bill, particularly with the idea of increasing the number of trained soldiers it would produce in a short period. To this end he proposes to raise the age limit of youths subject to train from 19 to 20, to secure more mature men, and to begin the training periods sooner than provided in the tentative bill, which proposes that about 500,000 youths be trained annually with six months' continuous service.

Another amendment, Senator Chamberlain said, would be to create 36 divisions in the country for the segregation of the training work, with facilities for training an army division of from 22,000 to 27,000 men, in each divisional camp. While some of the divisions, Senator Chamberlain thought, would have larger bodies under training than others, he believed at least 500,000 young men would be thus secured.

The Oregon senator impressed upon the president that his plan would not entail the enormous expense of the army general staff training bill. He estimated that without providing costly permanent barracks at training camps and by having the students live in tents, the annual cost of training 500,000 men would be roughly $156,000,000.

Wilson's Present Authority.

As to the measures necessary for increasing the army in emergency, Senator Chamberlain said that under existing law the president is authorized to increase the standing army to its war strength of 270,000, or with auxiliaries aggregating a regular force of about 300,000. The war strength of the national guard was estimated at about 440,000 with all forces fully enlisted. Thus combined, the senator said, a trained army of nearly three-quarters of a million men could be provided without action by congress.

When the regular army appropriation bill reaches the senate, Senator Chamberlain said he thought it would be increased, with or without specific request from the war department, at least sufficiently to provide material necessary for an army of 1,000,000.

A change planned by the war department in the supply bill and probably the only important change is to shorten the time for accumulation of reserve materials for the army. The present bill provides for their purchase over a period of from 4 to 5 years, and the department is planning to ask that funds for this purpose be made immediately available.

Patriotic Demonstration Also Will Be Postponed Indefinitely.

Washington, March 29.—The peace parade under the auspices of the Emergency Peace Federation, set for Monday, and the patriotic parade under the auspices of local business men, set for Saturday, will not take place, the Washington police department having declined to issue necessary permits.

Superintendent Pullman announced today both parades had been "postponed indefinitely." He said no permits for parades of any kind will be issued at the present time. Fear of disturbances is said to have been responsible for the action of the police.

commanding the field hospital corps, and Captain A. J. McBride, commanding Battery "B," of the field artillery.

Following the presentation of medals to the officers, 25 of Atlanta's prettiest young girls went down the rows of tables, each escorted by a G. M. A. cadet with a basketful of medals, and pinned a medal upon the breast of each soldier.

Colonel Hall when called upon to respond to the welcoming address on behalf of the soldiers, did so by stating that the officers of the Fifth were glad in getting back home to be able to say that they had brought their men back in better physical condition than when they left, and that the regiment could return to its home with not a black mark against its record or the record of any individual whose name is on the muster roll.

"We have seen service," said Colonel Hall, "and are glad of it. When Georgia and our country need us again, and it may not be for long that we will be allowed to rejoice over a home coming, then we will be ready to go.

"We know that we have come back to you better men, not only physically, but in every other sense of the word. We have tried to conduct ourselves as the folks at home would have us, and it is with some pride and a great deal of gratification that we have come back to so warm a welcome."

Flag Is Lowered.

At the conclusion of the exercises a big American flag, which was extended across the Auditorium stage was slowly lowered, while the lights in the house were dimmed and a huge spotlight was centered upon the Stars and Stripes.

As the flag came slowly and solemnly down, the bands played "America" and standing, the entire audience joined in the song. Other American flags were then brought down from each side of the stage and carried around the hall while the soldiers saluted the colors as the flags passed.

Governor Harris then arose and was escorted from the hall while every man stood at attention.

Seventy-five men from Georgia Tech, assisted by the Georgia Military academy cadets then cleared the floor and swept it with wax for dancing. Then the two bands began to play. The dancing continued until after 10:30 o'clock, when the festivities were brought to a close.

The Auditorium boxes were reserved for the wives of the officers, and the galleries around the huge hall were filled with the wives, sweethearts and relatives of the boys in khaki.

The various committees appointed by the chamber of commerce, from the Rotary club and other civic organizations had charge of the doors and tickets, while still other committees had charge of the program arrangements.

Given Severe Test.

The board after making a preliminary survey of the cars available for its tests and that appeared to conform to the salient characteristics of a practical light armored car, selected the King chassis.

A car of the desired type was built and driven overland to Washington for ordinance tests at Fort Myer, Va. The test was conducted under the direction of Major Adam E. Casad, of the ordnance department of the United States army. President and Mrs. Wilson saw the car start for the testing grounds.

Among those who witnessed the tests were Captains Ellis and Williams, of the Marine corps; Dr. Paul Ritter, the Swiss minister; Secretary of War Baker's secretary, Walter Pedigo; Congressman H. L. Gaudy, of South Dakota, and other government officials.

After the car had stood all tests required the board recommended the purchase of the King car as suitable for all rough expeditionary work it might be subjected to, or for any service the corps might require of it. It further proved easy to load and unload from the deck of a battleship.

The King war car is especially fitted with steel armor plate and a revolving turret—a minute edition of that found on battleships. The rear has a steel platform under which the ammunition is carried. A rapid fire gun is installed in the turret. The car carries three passengers, a driver, gunner and assistant. The gun is of such caliber that it can be used for scout duty, and is much more valuable for this branch of service work than its bigger brother, the armored motor truck, or the unprotected touring car.

The King chassis is particularly adapted for the work intended for the car because it can be moved swiftly, is durable and flexible, with plenty of power. The steel armored car with gun, passengers, test equipment and ammunition, weighs close to 4,600 pounds.

AMERICANS ON VESSEL SUNK WITHOUT WARNING

Washington, March 29.—The British bark, Neath, from Mauretius for Havre with sugar, was torpedoed without warning at 8:45 a. m. Tuesday, 28 miles southeast of Fastnet, according to state department reports today from Consul Frost at Queenstown. Two Americans, Clarence Bloom, of San Francisco, and Peter Webster, negro seaman, Pensacola, Fla., were aboard the vessel but escaped together with other members of the crew without loss or injury.

"The British bark Neath," Consul Frost said, "with auxiliary steam power, 4,690 tons, from Mauretius to Havre, cargo of sugar, was torpedoed without warning 8:45 a. m., 27th, 28 miles southeast of Fastnet. Sank in seven minutes. No losses or injuries. Carried no guns or wireless nor made any attempt to escape or resist. Weather fair.

"Boats picked up by admiralty vessels three off Baltimore 6:30 p. m., 27th. All saved. Two Americans, Clarence Bloom, of San Francisco, and Peter Webster, negro seaman, Pensacola, Fla., were aboard."

The message in part was conflicting. It said that the captain of the Neath was taken as a hostage by the submarine but afterward stated that the captain was landed yesterday afternoon at Queenstown.

"Dry" Conference Called.

Washington, March 29.—A call for a legislative conference of the National Temperance organizations was issued today by Daniel A. Pohling, president of the National Temperance council, on authority of the council conference, which has completed a two-day session here. The tentative date fixed was April 17.

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENS SPAIN

The Government Suspends Constitutional Guarantees Throughout Country, Closing "People's House" and Labor Centers.

Madrid, March 29.—(Via Paris.)—Count Romanones, the premier, at a meeting of the cabinet today, outlined the situation in Spain and announced that all precautionary measures required in the circumstances had been taken in Madrid. The "people's house" had been closed and all the provincial labor centers adhering to the general strike also will be closed.

At the present time, Madrid is quiet and the bulk of public opinion approves the energetic attitude of the government in view of the revolutionary and anti-patriotic character a general strike would have under present circumstances.

A circular telegram sent to the governors of the provinces conclues:

"If our situation is difficult, we must not forget that economic conditions here vary less from normal than in any other country. The attitude of the workmen, therefore, in threatening the country with a general strike without valid reason, cannot be excused by the situation."

DIFFICULTIES DUE TO U-BOAT BLOCKADE.

Paris, March 29.—While a Havas dispatch from Madrid announces the publication of a decree suspending the constitutional guarantees throughout Spain, it gives no reason for this act. The Temps, however, reports that conferences have been going on at the "house of the people" in Madrid between delegations of trades unions who were organizing a general strike. The newspaper adds that on account of the economic crisis in Spain the government has taken a firm yet conciliatory attitude. It has instructed the governors of the provinces to report immediately to Madrid the situation of the unemployed, classifying them according to trades.

The Temps says the economical difficulties in Spain are due partly to Germany's submarine blockade interrupting exports and imports. It adds that the situation in the Canary Islands by reason of the submarine blockade is extremely distressing.

An "appeal to the people," issued in Spain, has been declared by the government to be seditious, a Havas dispatch from Madrid reports. The signers of the appeal have been arrested. The cabinet has taken the affair into its own hands and will deal with it summarily.

SITUATION LIKENED TO RUSS REVOLT.

Washington, March 29.—Frequent reports from Spain of widespread unrest because of her attitude towards the war and an almost universal food shortage made officials at the state department receive today's announcement of the suspension of constitutional guarantees without surprise. Ever since the beginning of the war there has been decided internal dissensions as to Spain's attitude in the war, and during the last few months, especially with the sharpening of the German submarine campaign, the food shortage has aggravated the trouble.

Officials here, pointing out the similarity to the Russian revolution, which also began through political unrest, deepened by food shortage, were unwilling to predict the outcome.

RUSSIANS APPEAL TO TEUTON WORKERS TO RESIST TYRANNY

Petrograd, Wednesday, March 28.—(Via London, March 29.)—An appeal to the workmen of the German and Austrian coalition to rise against the imperial authority and to establish their freedom, says the Petrograd Telegraph agency (the Russian official news agency), was launched at a mass meeting of workmen, soldiers and deputies held today at the duma.

The appeal was directed to the proletariat of the whole world, but it specially designates the central powers, urging the workmen of those countries to "throw off the yoke of autocratic rule as the Russian people have overthrown the imperial autocrat and refuse to serve longer as an instrument in the hands of kings, capitalists and bankers."

By a united effort, the appeal declares, "we can stop this awful murder which is the shame of humanity."

A declaration in support of the war has been issued by a committee of working men, soldiers and deputies, and apparently represents the sober conclusion which the masses have reached, after being swayed this way and that by the turbulent currents and cross-currents which swept through the country in the first days of the revolution.

This conclusion is that liberty and victory over the Germans are inseparable and that the responsibility for plunging Europe into war rests on the Hohenzollern family and Prussian imperialistic ambitions.

The tendency is to regard the war no longer as a struggle between nations, but as one between the new spirit of democracy and the old spirit of imperialism. The people are eagerly desirous of peace, but are ready to devote redoubled energy to war if that is the only way of achieving it. Even the dissentient voice of the extreme socialist elements which at first openly declared itself against war and counseled the soldiers to lay down their arms has been drowned in the universal cry that the struggle must continue.

The result of this broader understanding of the object for which the country is fighting has been to bring the extreme radicals into unison with the rest of the country. Reasuring reports of the visit of Minister of War Guchkoff to the front continue to be received. Everywhere the army responded with the greatest enthusiasm to his appeals and declared itself ready to continue fighting until the end. The same spirit is manifested in Petrograd, where there are daily processions of troops carrying banners inscribed:

"Liberty and Victory."

The workmen in all the factories engaged in manufacturing for the national defense have decided to renounce the eight-hour day for the period of the war.

The peasants are systematically organizing militia to replace the old police. They are also establishing new local authorities and convoking commercial assemblies, which will support the new government and will sell country products for victualing the army and people.

In many of the governments the peasants have lowered prices. Many assemblies have opened funds to organize a course of political conferences. The idea of equal rights for women is gaining weight.

RUSS REVOLT STARTS REFORMS IN GERMANY.

Copenhagen, March 29.—(Via London.)—The demand for the immediate introduction of internal reforms in Germany, particularly in Prussia, has received a strong impetus from the Russian revolution. The peace organs of these parties, notably The Berlin Vorwaerts, declare that Russia's revolt to democracy leaves Germany and Austria-Hungary alone among the belligerents as representatives of non-parliamentary regimes and necessitates German reforms without waiting for the end of the war.

The Vorwaerts declares that otherwise the conviction of the entente nations that they are now fighting for the freedom of the world against antiquated modes of government will grow stronger and stronger.

In Wednesday morning's leader, The Vorwaerts attacks the chancellor on this score more vigorously than at any time since the paper passed into the control of the moderate socialists. It abandons entirely the attitude of support which the socialists under Scheidemann's leadership have been extending and employs the sharp language of ante-bellum days. The attitude of the other socialist papers also leaves little doubt that a campaign on this issue is about to be launched in the reichstag.

More remarkable, however, is a phrase in The Cologne Gazette from which it might be deduced that the chancellor is considering some immediate action on the reform of the Prussian franchise, despite his declaration of March 15 that such a reform should be postponed until peace was restored. The Gazette says: "Should the chancellor become convinced that it is inadvisable to defer changes in the Russian system, which he has declared necessary and advantageous, until peace, but on the contrary to give them a more definite form now, this newspaper would not criticise him."

EFFORT TO RAID STATE WAREHOUSE BLOCKED BY SHERIFF

Girard, Ala., March 29.—A party of armed men early today attempted to break in a state warehouse here which contained approximately $7,000 worth of liquor, recently confiscated by the state. The men, who came here in automobiles, were frightened away by deputy sheriffs.

The Russell county grand jury, it was learned today, is investigating the alleged finding of about 400 cases of whisky in several buildings in Girard.

ed to be on hand tomorrow for the democratic caucus, preliminary to the meeting of congress next Monday.

Mr. Overstreet, who succeeded Representative Edwards, of the First district, arrived today. It is probable that he will be assigned to the rivers and harbors committee, the work of which is of particular importance to his district. A position on naval affairs and foreign affairs, two of the most important committees of the house at this time, are open to the other two members. Mr. Brand will probably take one of these and Mr. Larsen the other.

Representative Gordon Lee, who has been ill with pneumonia, will not be able to attend the caucus, but expects to be present in the house next week, when his voice is needed to organize the house. Mrs. Lee stated today that he is recovering his strength slowly, but is much better.

Representative Martin made public a telegram he said Mr. Randall sent him last Sunday, anouncing Mr. Mann's coalition proposal and suggesting quick action by the independents "to secure credit for organization."

Democratic members of the ways and means committee today arranged to hold a meeting tomorrow after the caucus to lay plans for raising revenue. Representative Garner, of Texas, a member of the committee, said he favored elimination of politics in the meetings and that he hoped all party members would meet together.

Republicans heard today that Representative Capstick, of New Jersey, a republican, was ill and probably would not be present Monday.

BRITISH CAPTURE ANOTHER VILLAGE

day was relatively calm. In the Margival sector there was active artillery fighting. The artillery actions were quite violent in the direction of Maisons de Champagne and Hill 304, and in the neighborhood of Embermesnil.

"Yesterday a German airplane was brought down."

FRENCH CAPTURE MUNITIONS DEPOT.

Paris, March 29.—An important munitions and supply depot has been captured by the French, the war office announced today. Artillery fighting continued during the night between the Somme and the Aisne and the French kept in contact everywhere with the German lines. Soissons was bombarded by heavy German guns.

The statement follows:

"From the Somme to the Aisne there is no change in the situation. Intermittent artillery fighting occurred during the night. Our troops everywhere maintained contact with the enemy's lines.

"In the course of operations of recent days south of the Oise we took possession of important depots of materials and ammunition. Yesterday German long-range guns fired seven shells at Soissons. In the region of Rheims we made a successful surprise attack north of La Pomelle.

"In the Champagne near Tahure and in the Argonne, at Courtes Chausses attacked by the enemy were repulsed completely by our fire. On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) out troops recaptured in a spirited attack the last elements of the trenches which the enemy had been holding since March 18. We took prisoners in the vicinity of Avocourt wood and Hill 304.

"There were no important events on the remainder of the front."

GERMANS FIRM IN CHAMPAGNE.

Berlin, March 29.—(Via Sayville.)—French efforts to recapture the positions recently taken from them in the Champagne region were futile, army headquarters announced today. The French sustained heavy losses in these attacks. A French attack on the German lines in the region of Hill 304 northwest of Verdun, carried out on a wide front, also failed. The British lost 55 men in prisoners in an engagement near Croisilles.

Following is the official account of operations on the Franco-Belgian front:

"There was vigorous artillery fighting yesterday, continuing into the night, between Lens and Arras. Before daybreak yesterday in an engagement near Croiselles and Ecoust St. Meinnson, northeast of Bapaume, the British lost one officer and 54 men, who were taken prisoner, in addition to numerous men who were killed by an advance of our protecting troops.

"In the Champagne several attacks, undertaken by the French in an effort to regain the trenches captured from them, failed with heavy losses.

"On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front), yesterday, our defensive fire frustrated French advances against Hill 304 which were in preparation. This morning an attack launched on a wide front failed under our fire, and at one place through a counter attack.

"East of Verdun our airmen shot down two captive balloons. In the air engagement and by defensive fire, four enemy airplanes were brought down.

"Eastern Front: Conditions are generally quiet.

"Macedonian Front: The situation is unchanged."

GERMAN FORCES AGAIN ENTRENCHED.

London, March 29.—The Germans are now entrenched along the front over which the French and British have been advancing, according to a statement made to the Associated Press today by Major General F. B. Maurice.

General Maurice, who is chief director of military operations at the war office, said that whether the positions taken by the Germans formed the much advertised Hindenburg line would not be revealed until the French and British armies had brought up their heavy artillery.

The Germans are continuing to offer energetic resistance on the northern part of their new line in France, Reuter's correspondent at British headquarters in France says the Germans evidently regarded Croisilles as a point of great technical importance and are contesting the approach of the British to it in force, but are being hard pressed.

The British gained considerable ground south and west of Croisilles yesterday. The Germans fell back, fighting as they withdrew and suffering heavy casualties.

BRITONS DEFEAT TURKISH ARMY.

London, March 29.—The British army in Palestine has defeated a Turkish army of 20,000 men, capturing 900 men, including a general, the war office announces, and the entire divisional staff of the Fifty-third Turkish division in Palestine has been captured.

The official statement says that British troops have advanced for a distance of 15 miles along the southern Palestine coast of the Mediterranean. The British forces have pushed forward from Rafa to the Wadi Ghuzzep, a river five miles south of Gaza (Ghuzzep). Gaza is twenty miles north of the Egyptian-Syrian boundary.

The official statement reads:

"Telegraphing yesterday the commander-in-chief in Egypt reports that we advanced our troops 15 miles from Rafa to the Wadi Ghuzzeh, five miles south of Gaza, to cover the construction of a railway.

"On Monday and Tuesday we were heavily engaged in this neighborhood with a force of about 20,000 of the enemy. We inflicted very heavy losses on him, taking 900 prisoners, including the general commanding and the whole division of staff of the 53d Turkish division. This figure includes four Austrian officers and 32 Austrians and Germans of other ranks. We also captured two Austrian 4.2-inch howitzers. All the troops behaved splendidly, especially the troops of the Welsh, Kent, Sussex, Hereford, Middlesex and Surrey regiments and the Anzac and the Yeomanry mounted troops."

RUSSIANS REPULSE GERMAN ATTACK.

Petrograd, March 29.—(Via London.) Reporting military operations on the battle front in Russia and Galicia, the official statement issued today by the Russian war department says:

"Western Front: North of Stanislavov, in the region of the village of Jamnitza, the enemy after intense artillery preparations and mine and bomb firing, attacked, but being met by our rifle and artillery fire, was compelled to retire to his entranchments.

"During the night of Monday enemy attempts to take the offensive north of Elaventine, ten miles southwest of Brzezany, were repulsed. East of Brzezany we exploded a large mine. After the explosion our scouts forced the enemy's trenches and the Germans were ejected at the point of the bayonet from the dugout in which they had hidden. After having captured 21 German prisoners our scouts returned to their positions.

"On the rest of the front there were scouting reconnaissances and rifle firing."

PRESIDENT INDORSES JEWISH RELIEF FUND

Washington, March 29.—President Wilson sent a telegram today indorsing the raising of a $10,000,000 fund for the relief of Jewish war sufferers, in which he said "the Russian revolution has opened the door of freedom to an oppressed people," and sounded a warning that they should be encouraged.

AMERICANS ABOARD TORPEDOED VESSEL

Argo, From New Orleans, Is Sunk—About Eight U. S. Citizens on Ship—British Steamer Sunk.

New Orleans, March 29.—The Portuguese ship Argo, 1,488 net tons, which sailed from this port February 9 for London with a cargo of merchandise, and several Americans in her crew, has been torpedoed and sunk, according to a cablegram received today from London by the owners' agents here. The message giving this information was in response to an inquiry from the local agents as to whether the vessel had reached London. The reply merely stated "torpedoed, sunk."

No information was available here as to where the Argo was torpedoed or the fate of her crew. The ship was owned by Embreza Maritima Oceano, Ltd., of Lisbon, Portugal.

Captain Fernandes was master of the Argo and carried a crew of 22. The Portuguese vice consul stated he had no crew list, but he thought about eight or ten of the sailors were Americans and several of these he believed were negroes.

British Steamer Torpedoed.

London, March 29.—The British steamship Alnwick Castle has been torpedoed in the Atlantic ocean. Some persons are reported dead and others are missing.

The admiralty has informed the Associated Press that the Alnwick Castle was torpedoed without warning March 19 in the Atlantic, 320 miles from the nearest land. On the previous day the steamer had rescued the crew of another British steamer that also had been torpedoed.

The passengers and crews of both vessels abandoned the Alnwick Castle in five boats. One of these boats landed on the Spanish coast. It originally contained twenty persons, including a stewardess and a child, but five of them died. All the survivors in this boat were suffering from frost bite.

Three other boats also were picked up during the week, one containing 27, another 29 and the third 20 survivors. In these boats there were five dead. The fifth boat that put out from the steamer has not yet been accounted for.

The British steamship Alnwick Castle measures 5,900 tons gross and was owned by the Union-Castle Mail Steamship company, of London. She was 400 feet long and was built in Glasgow in 1901. The Alnwick Castle probably was in the service of the British government.

Macon Takes Steps To Protect Property Against Germans

Macon, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Steps were taken today by the military authorities to guard Macon's water supply from possible harm at the hands of Germans. Guards have been placed at the Riverside pumping station, the Vineville water tower and at the reservoir in South Macon, with orders to keep all suspicious-looking persons from approaching.

While no trouble of any kind is anticipated, it has been thought best not to take any chances. There is also talk of placing a guard at the big dam of the Central Georgia Power company at Jackson, from which the city of Macon and other middle Georgia cities secure their electric current for lights and power purposes.

Another precaution taken by the police today was a compilation of a list of all pro-Germans in Macon, what they do and where they stay. This is being done as a matter of precaution, so that in case of war the police will know just who they have to look out for. There are not many pro-Germans in Macon, but there are some who are known to have been doing a lot of talking in recent months, and the police believe they will bear watching. The first sign of anything out of the ordinary on their part will result in their arrest.

DANIELS ADDRESSES GRADUATING MIDDIES

183 Annapolis Men Commissioned Early to Face Grave Responsibilities.

Annapolis, Md., March 29.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today held up to nearly two hundred midshipmen who received their diplomas from him the record of the heroes of the navy, particularly the late Admiral Dewey, and urged them to go into the service with the bright record of these former sea fighters as shining marks toward which to strive.

The graduates were told by the secretary that the nation expected them to be ready "for the day that may come—how soon, who can tell?—when upon your coolness and knowledge and leadership and ability to shoot straight may depend the fate of a decisive naval engagement."

Graduated three months ahead of time because of the strained international situation, the 183 members of the class tonight were on their way to take up the duties as ensigns.

SECOND REGIMENT WANTS TO MOVE TO CAMP HARRIS

Macon, Ga., March 29.—(Specia.)—Colonel J. A. Thomas, of the Second Georgia regiment, has wired the war department for permission to move the camp of the Second regiment from Central City park, where the troops are now housed, to the former Camp Harris Central City park is on the bank of the Ocmulgee river, and as the river was recently out of its banks, the place is not considered healthy. Also the buildings are not large enough to accommodate the men. Another drawback is the lack of proper drill space.

At Camp Harris there is plenty of room for drills and the location is ideal from a health standpoint.

In the event the war department gives its consent the regument will probably be moved tomorrow.

DATES ARE ANNOUNCED FOR TRAINING CAMPS

Washington, March 29.—Dates for the establishment of civilian training camps, announced today, include the following: Austin, Texas, May 4 to June 3; Dallas, Texas, June 16 to July 15; Alexandria, La., July 28 to August 27, and Houston, Texas, September 8 to October 7. # PEACE PLAN TRIAL IS URGED BY BRYAN

Asks Congress to Treat With Germany Before Declaring War—Also Wants Referendum Taken on the Subject.

Miami, Fla., March 29.—William J. Bryan today addressed an appeal to the senate and house of representatives urging that an attempt be made to secure the suspension of Germany's ruthless submarine campaign through the application of the so-called Bryan peace plan which provides for an investigation of all disputes by an international tribunal before resort to war.

Mr. Bryan asked that congress also consult the wishes of the people through a referendum if it concludes that nothing but war will satisfy the nation's honor. Mr. Bryan's appeal to congress follows:

"Exercising the citizen's right of petition, I appeal to you. The dispute with Germany has passed beyond the demand of diplomacy and some advise settlement by the sword. The metropolitan press, which tried to prevent the re-election of the president and failed, undismayed by a popular verdict of more than one-half million, now seeks to lash the country into a fury and urges the government to take part in the European conflict.

Boosts His Peace Plan.

"To you, and to you only, is given constitutional authority to declare war—which in this case may mean the signing of the death warrant of thousands, even millions, of your countrymen and the laying of grievous burdens upon future generations. Before you take this blood upon your hands, consider, I pray you, first, that the wrongs which you would punish, cruel and unjustifiable as they are, are not intended primarily against this country, but are acts of desperation directed against other nations with which the offenders are at war. Second, that our land is not threatened with invasion, but that we are asked to go three thousand miles for a chance to fight. Third, that we have not the excuse for going to war that the European nations had. They had no machinery for peace; we have a peace plan offered by this nation to the world, and now embodied in thirty treaties with three-quarters of the population of the globe. The plan has the indorsement of the president, the commendation of the senate and the approval of the people at the polls. It provides for investigation of all disputes by an international tribunal before resort to war.

"Fortunately these treaties compel us to employ the plan with Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia before going to war. Germany formally approved the plan, although no treaty has yet been concluded with her. Shall we repudiate our own plan the first time we have an opportunity to employ it? If, as the president recently declared, the American people do not want war, is it not worth while to try the peace plan before bringing upon the people the horrors of war? Until an attempt is made and fails, no one is able to say that it would be impossible to secure the suspension of 'ruthless' submarine warfare during the investigation for which the plan provides. Shall we deny to ourselves the credit of trying to settle the dispute with the treaty plan?

Would Give Up Sea Rights.

"And is it not worth while to do our part in trying to avoid injury? Would it not be better, as well as cheaper, for the government to carry on its own vessels such Americans as must go to Europe rather than engage in war to vindicate the right of citizens to disregard all risks and ride upon belligerent ships?

"Is it not worth while to separate passengers from contraband cargoes, so that the captains of passenger ships can give their entire attention to the safety of the pasengers? Our nation is the world's foremost advocate of peace. If we go to war it should be for a cause which history will justify.

"If you reach the conclusion that nothing but war will satisfy the nation's honor, is it too much to ask that by a referendum you consult the wishes of those who must, in case of war, defend the nation's honor with their lives?

"As one who expects to live up to a citizen's duties, if war comes, I plead with you to use all honorable means to preserve peace before you take the responsibility of plunging our beloved land into this unprecedented struggle, begun without any sufficient cause, and conducted by both sides in utter disregard of the well-settled rights of neutrals."

NATIONAL GUARD URGES COMPULSORY TRAINING

New York, March 29.—Universal compulsory military training, with the national guard as a part of the federal force, was recommended by the unanimous vote of the delegates to the national defense convention of the National Guard association of the United States at its closing session here today.

Members of the universal service committee of veterans of the national guard and naval militia, meeting later in the armory where the national defense convention was held, went on record as favoring "universal military training and service under exclusive federal control, for all male citizens of the United States of suitable age."

URIC ACID IN MEAT BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says a little Salts in water may save you from dread attack.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—(adv.)

Ethel Leginska Delights Big Audience Thursday

When Ethel Leginska came out on the stage at Cable Hall last night, in her famous little long, black velvet coat and short skirt, with little silver buckled shoes, showing under it, and her curly hair all but "bobbed," she seemed more like a little school girl about to do her commencement recitation, than a celebrated pianist about to fill her audience with great wonder. And after she had played, her smile was as ingenuous and pleased as the little school girl's who had never known applause.

She played the program of a virtuoso, and through it all, surely there could not have been a thought in the big audience of limiting the marvel of her art as that of a great "woman pianist."

Rather did her technique, her power, both of tone and influence, her imagination, suggest a tremendous personality, a rare musical mentality and spirit in the slight form of a woman.

By no easy stages did the program carry her hearers to full realization of the marvel of her art. There was immediate preparation in a Gavotte and Variations by Rameau, a delicate, quaint thing in its beginning, but holding the attention of the audience at once with the clean, decisive quality of the player's touch and tone, and rushing soon into the changes which kept the eyes dancing to follow the Leschetizky-trained fingers, broadened at the ends and with the muscular development of the broad part of the hand very perceptible.

Two dances by Beethoven were a wholesome pleasure, their rhythm as definite as their theme, and their interpretation as broad and wholesome as the composition. The "Rondo a Capriccio" was filled with smiles, which lost none of their gaiety, even with the rondo's ever-mounting complexities, for the pianist played it with the ease of utter simplicity.

For some in her audience, Leginska's playing of the Chopin nocturne in C Minor, must have been the treasure of treasures. With a basis of perfect pianism, it revealed, as nothing else did so fully, the purely psychic side of Leginska's art; her inner seeking for the composer's thought, and her finding of the chord which releases it.

Nothing modern approaches in spirit the content of the nocturne and her interpretation of it, save Debussy.

The big Scherzo in B Minor of Chopin became a thing of breathless virtuosity, and two encores were a Chopin etude and the lovely "Raindrop" nocturne, as placid as clear moonlight.

With the Keltic sonata by MacDowell, Mme. Leginska should have, by birth, a native congeniality, and she proved it in her virile grasp of its primitive pronouncements; primitive only in our latter-day sense; for it reflects also the romance, which had begun, by Druid times, related in the sonata, to dawn upon man's history.

The latter part of the program was a climax of technical achievement in an Etude Heroique by Leschetizky, and three Liszt numbers—Legende (St. Francis Walking on the Waters); La Campanella, which had to be repeated, and the eighth Rhapsodie. Their interest lay by no means alone in their technique, however, for they were illuminated by an imagination of endless color and fervor.

An elaborate concert arrangement of the "Blue Danube" waltz, completed the program, which was received throughout with great enthusiasm. The concert was the last of the season provided by the Music Study club.

Appeals of Sister Fail to Separate Young "Newlyweds"

Groom's Sister Takes Young Couple to Police Station, But Night Chief Jett Refuses to Interfere in Case.

Cupid proved the victor last night at police station when Mrs. J. L. Hardin, of 17 Crew street, made a frantic appeal to Night Chief Jett to separate her brother Charles Jenkins, and his young bride, formerly Miss Vivian Cowles, of 81 Summit avenue, and to help her have the wedding annulled. In spite of her assertions that the young couple were not of age, and did not have a legal right to marry as a result, the chief was adamant.

"They are married now," he said, "and I certainly don't intend to interfere. If they love one another and want to stay together it is certainly no business of mine or of any officer of the law to try to separate them. I can't do anything for you."

When Mrs. Hardin heard of the ceremony she jumped into her Packard, did not wait for her chauffeur, but drove away on an "auto hunt" up and down Peachtree street in search of the bride and groom.

"I knew they would be somewhere on Peachtree street," said Mrs. Hardin. "Charles had telephoned me he had married, and that he and his bride were going up town to see the sights. I caught them at Peachtree and Auburn avenue, made them get into my car, and off to police barracks I went. Chief Jett was very polite about it, but would do nothing. I then left the bride and groom, and do not know where they went to."

A few hours later Mrs. A. C. Howell, at 81 Summit avenue, where Mrs. Jenkins had formerly lived, telephoned Night Chief Jett and told him that one of Mr. Jenkins' sisters had been telephoning her, and threatening to do her injury if she allowed Charles and his wife to come to her home to live. Chief Jett instructed her not to answer her telephone any more that night.

Where the bride and groom went no one knows. They were married by Rev. Mr. Cooper at the pastor's residence on East Georgia avenue at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Hardin stated that none of the Jenkins family knew anything about the wedding, and had never heard Charles speak of his bride before the marriage.

Mrs. Jenkins, acording to Mrs. Hardin, was formerly Mrs. F. J. Dennis, the wife of F. J. Dennis, of New York city. Mr. Dennis is the Dennis who married one of the Nelms' sisters, whose sensational disappearance in Atlanta several years ago created widespread interest.

RAIDER'S PRISONERS RELEASED BY BERLIN

Copenhagen, March 29.—(Via London.)—Twenty-two neutrals who were brought to Germany on the commerce raider Moewe as prisoners, including one American, arrived here today from Kiel. They were released because they were not serving on armed merchantmen.

The sailors brought an account of a hard engagement betwen the Moewe and the British steamer Otaki, which put up a sturdy fight when it was encountered by the German raider on March 10. The Otaki, according to the sailors, surrendered only after scoring seven hits on the Moewe and setting the German raider on fire. The blaze was not extinguished for three days. Six men of the crew of the Moewe and two captive Hindus were killed during the fight, while the Otaki lost her captain, a mate, her engineer and two sailors.

You cannot afford to let this opportunity pass to make such enormous profits on a small investment as we believe you will in our oil development proposition, for $10 invested now may bring you $10,000 within a year.

HIGHER RATES ON COAL GIVEN EASTERN LINES

Washington, March 29.—The interstate commerce commission decided to permit increased rates on coal and coke proposed by eastern lines as a part of general advances in freight rates to become effective without suspension. The increases are from 5 to 10 cents per ton on bituminous coal and from 10 to 65 cents on coke.

Applications for increased rates on ore, the only other commodity excepted from the general increase of 15 per cent desired, now are pending before the commission. The increased coal rates apply from West Virginia and Pennsylvania fields and 10 cents per ton from West Virginia fields, effective April 16 and April 1 respectively.

The increases in coke rates vary from 10 to 65 cents per ton, and apply from ovens in West Virginia to blast furnaces in Virginia, effective April 1.

No announcement was made as to the commission's decision with respect to the proposed increase of 15 cents per ton on coal from Pennsylvania fields to lake ports.

"That was rather a vague request the tenor made of his manager."

"What was it?"

"He asked the manager to indorse his notes."—London Answers.

This Correspondent Neglects to Write Of Secret Wedding

Here Is First Story of Marriage of Miss Flora Rainey and Mr. Emory Edge, But Correspondent Edge Didn't Furnish News.

Emory Stilwell Edge is correspondent for The Constitution at Gainesville, Ga. But there was one piece of news he neglected to send to his paper.

And that was his secret marriage last September to Miss Flora Rainey, of Gainesville, at the home of the Rev. J. A. Crumley.

Even though he realized the news value of his marriage, the correspondent—and he's a good one, as the state news department will admit—continued to neglect his duty to his paper.

So far as Gainesville and the bride and groom are concerned, the marriage is still a secret. Only the happy couple, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rainey, and the minister knew of the wedding up until the moment this paper reaches Gainesville.

The couple proposed to keep the marriage secret until late in the spring when they intended to begin housekeeping.

The First will be encamped in Savannah till the war department orders it mustered out or moved to other sections for police service.

FATHER AND SON DINNER.

Over 1,000 Tickets Sold for Banquet at Auditorium.

So generous has been the response of Atlanta citizens to the Father and Son banquet at the Auditorium-Armory Friday night that Secretary Blakey, of the Y. M. C. A. boys' division, and Scoutmaster Jameson, of the Boy Scouts, who have been directing the promotion of the banquet, believe that this function will be the largest of its kind that has ever been held in the United States.

The ticket sale came to a close Thursday night with 1,073 plates reserved. The goal had been set at 1,000, and because of the number sold the ticket sale had to be closed with many others desiring to secure tickets.

Attention is called to the fact that the mothers and other interested friends are invited to occupy the seats around the arena without charge.

Twenty-seven business and professional men have agreed to take boys at the Y. M. C. A. to the banquet whose fathers are dead. A like number are being supplied from the Boy Scout headquarters to Rotarians and others.

The music for the occasion will be furnished by the Georgia Tech band.

The banquet will start at 6:45. Those holding tickets are urged to be on hand promptly to secure admission by that time.

PRETTY GIRLS WILL STAGE PLAY TONIGHT IN TECH AUDITORIUM

The senior class of the North Avenue Presbyterian school will stage the annual play tonight in the auditorium of the Tech Y. M. C. A. The play this year is "Man Proposes," and was written by the members of the senior class.

The public is invited to attend the production. No admission will be charged.

The cast for "Man Proposes" is made up entirely of the young women of the school. Even the male roles are taken by the young women. Miss Evelyn Eagan will play the part of the man who "proposes." Misses Lillian Jacobs and Bell Matheson have trained the young women.

Miss Rheba Crawford, who wrote most of the play, will play the leading role. The cast includes Misses Evelyn Eagan, Rheba Crawford, Mary Barnett, Mary Knight, Josephine Davis, Lydia Mathews, Margaret Baugh, Elsie Tripp and Margaret Bennett.

"Man Proposes" is a dainty little play in which a young man who suddenly inherits a large fortune finds himself with an overabundant supply of sweethearts. No less than seven young women lay traps for him and accept him. Suddenly the announcement comes that he has lost his fortune, and all but one of the girls gives him the cold shoulder. But later developments prove that the fortune still exists and the young man and the girl who loved him for himself "lived happily ever after."

CARL VROOMAN WILL ADDRESS CATTLEMEN OF DIXIE ON APRIL 5

Carl Vrooman, of the federal department of agriculture, will address the Southern Cattlemen convention on April 5 at 11 o'clock in the ball room of the Kimball house. Mr. Vrooman is coming south to conduct a campaign to increase the production of foodstuffs in this section and will open his campaign with his address to the cattlemen.

The federal department of agriculture has been called on by the president to do its part in preparing the country for any emergency that might arise. This department has decided that unless southern farmers raise more foodstuffs next year that Dixie will be a liability instead of an asset should this country find it necessary to declare war on Germany.

The Georgia Chamber of Commerce with the co-operation of the Georgia Bankers' association, through its secretary, Haynes McFadden, will have charge of the food crops campaign in Georgia. The southern campaign that will be conducted by Mr. Vrooman will open in this state. Already many engagements have been made for him at meetings to be held in different sections.

Over 500 cattlemen from every section of the south will attend the cattlemen's convention here. The association has extended the invitation to Mr. Vrooman to address them as the campaign he is waging is in keeping with the purpose of their organization.

"Little Commencement" Of Chief Importance In Athens This Week

Athens, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—"Little Commencement," an event of state-wide importance socially and of greatest moment in college circles in Athens, when scores of young ladies are visiting Athens from all over the state and from other states, will be ushered in Friday evening to last over the week-end. There will be numerous house parties in Athens and at several of the chapter houses numbers of little dinners and a series of dances.

The Pan-Hellenic dance will be given Friday night at the Moss auditorium. A soiree is planned for Saturday afternoon following the track events and the ball game on Sanford field; the Georgia Glee club performance at the Colonial Monday night, with a dozen box parties, will form a great part of the entertainment, and the freshman dance to follow at the auditorium will be the concluding event.

ALBANY ESTABLISHES COURT FOR JUVENILES

Albany, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—The establishment of a juvenile court for Dougherty county was completed yesterday when Judge W. M. Harrell, in the superior court, named Judge Clayton Jones, judge of the city court of Albany, to preside over the juvenile court. The grand jury had just recommended that the appointment be made.

Miss Agnes McKinna, of Atlanta, field secretary for social welfare work in Georgia, appeared before the grand jury and asked that a probation officer also be appointed. The grand jury is expected to act favorably on this proposal. A trained nurse would be selected to have charge of this work. She would also assist Dr. J. A. White, county health officer, and be of assistance to the school authorities in securing compliance with the compulsory attendance law.

LYCEUM ART ORCHESTRA DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE

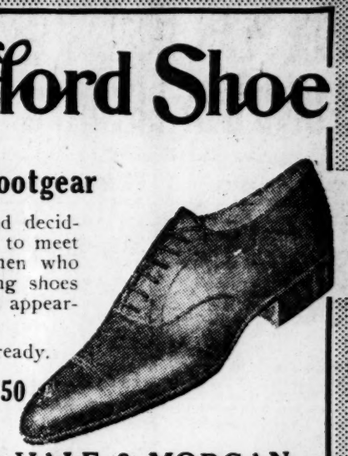

There was no mistake in the announcement that the Lyceum Arts Conservatory orchestra would be one of the best numbers of the entire season's Alkahest program. With each member a skillful artist in handling her particular instrument, the large audience that gathered last night at the Baptist Tabernacle was greatly pleased and showed its appreciation by continuous applause.

Miss Beulah Truitt, an accomplished reader and able musician, as well as the manager of the orchestra, proved a rare treat. Her readings, especially the one in which she detailed a darky's emotions when overcome by fright of "spooks," were well received, and the "spook" noises made by the other members of the orchestra, while Miss Truitt read, caused considerable amusement.

The soprano of Miss Marvin Tharpe was appealing with its clear notes and high range, while the singing of the quartet was the best, with its fine harmony and grace of soft tones. The playing of "While You and I Were Young, Maggie," by Miss Ruth Beebe on the cello was most effective, and Miss Amelia Carstenson's handling of the violin received an abundance of applause.

The other members of the organization were equally skillful and pleasing, and the entire program was characterized by a splendid variety and ended in a militant medley appropriate to the present warlike times.

Standard Club Gives Beautiful Patriotic Ball.

One of the most brilliant entertainments of the year was the patriotic ball last night at the Standard club.

A company of two hundred enjoyed the occasion, and decorations, music, tableaux and the costumes of the guests contributed to a spectacular celebration of love of country and the Stars and Stripes.

The whole club house was gay with lavish use of the national colors, and electric lights in red, white and blue twinkled everywhere through a luxury of palms and smilax. A large picture of Washington and one of Wilson were hung in the dining room and framed with flags, and doves of peace were a pretty incident. Supper was served at one great table in the shape of the initial of the occasion, "P." Its decoration was entirely in flags and red, white and blue lights, and flags were souvenirs.

The Fifth regiment band played for dancing, national airs prevailing on the musical program, and patriotic tableaux were staged immediately after supper.

Beautiful Tableaux.

The tableaux represented the "Making of American History," and were as follows:

Christopher Columbus at the Court of Ferdinand and Isabella—Mr. Herman Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wellhouse.

Landing of the Pilgrims—Mrs. Ralph Rosenbaum, Miss Adele Frohsin, Miss Yetta Spiro, Miss Edna Levy, Mr. Charles Franklin, Mr. Edwin Zacharias, Mr. Rudolph Loeb.

Pocahontas Slays the Execution of Captain John Smith—Mrs. William Kriegshaber, Mr. Nat Ullman and Mr. Albert Mayer (Powhatan).

The Spirit of '76—Messrs. Lester Einstein, Harold Amster and Edgar Haas.

The Martyred President—Mr. Daniel Copeland, Lincoln.

Appropriate music announced each tableau.

The costumes of all the guests represented some period of the nation's history, or some personage of national or historic distinction, and the entire effect was one of beauty and picturesque elaboration.

League for Woman's Service Will Be Opened Today.

The Atlanta headquarters of the League for Woman's Service will open this morning at 10 o'clock in the headquarters, 172½ Peachtree street, second floor, next to Winecoff hotel.

Mrs. William Lawson Peel calls a meeting of the chairmen so far appointed, this morning at 10 o'clock, to continue plans for direct work in the various departments of league work.

Within a few days, the office force will be organized and the work will begin, members of the league stated when asked about the work of the organization as it progresses in Atlanta. "Our most important work now is to secure the return of the registration blanks, through which we are to arrive at some idea of what the forces of women are, and for what specific work they are preparing to engage in, in case of war; whether in the nature of relief work or actual service in some department where women are called."

Mrs. R. M. Walker, chairman of press, requests that all women who have the blanks to sign which have been given out by the National League for Woman's Service, sign those blanks and return them to the state chairman, Mrs. William Lawson Peel, 133 Peachtree road.

Lectures on Short Story Writing.

The Atlanta Writers' club announces that the second of Dr. J. D. M. Armistead's lectures on "The Technique of Short Story Writing" will be delivered at Phillips & Crew's assembly room on Monday, April 2, the lecture to begin promptly at 5 o'clock. An admission fee of 25 cents per lecture is asked non-members of the Writers' club. Students of short story writing, playwrighting, photo-play writing, will find much of value to them in Dr. Armistead's lectures on technique and his analyses of short story masterpieces. For detailed information, telephone Mrs. J. O. Parmele, Ivy 5622.

Woman Golf Champion Wins Violin Diploma.

Miss Alexandra Williamson Stirling, woman golf champion of the United States, will receive her teachers' diploma in violin from the Morgan Violin school on Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock, at the Hotel Ansley, the occasion to be the sixteenth annual commencement of the school.

The diploma represents six years' work in violin, averaging three hours a day in violin work; four years' experience in orchestral work, and two hours a day in theory and history of music. It implies more than a graduate's degree, which is for five years' work. It is, in fact, a teacher's diploma.

The award will be made by Mrs. Theodora Morgan Stephens, head of the school, and Miss Stirling's teacher since she was six years old.

Miss Stirling, in an autobiographical article in the current issue of "Golf Illustrated," ascribes much of her success as a golf player to her long-time handling of the fiddle and the bow, and her many public appearances in student recitals and concerts, which have established her self-confidence. She admits that her golf has helped her violin "stroke," but declares that her violin has done more for her golf. The magazine article is cleverly illustrated by Miss Nora Stirling, sister of the champion.

To Miss McCall.

Mrs. Thomas E. Cauthorn was hostess yesterday at a beautiful luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club, the occasion a compliment to Miss Annie Will McCall. The table centerpiece was a basket of lilacs, pink tulips and Easter lillies, the handle tied with pink and lilac and white tulle, and these colors were repeated in picturesque detail. Gold monogram cards marked the places, and covers were laid for ten.

Mrs. Cauthorn was gowned in blue Georgette crepe embroidered in beads and her hat was of black lisere straw. Miss McCall was lovely in gray taffeta and silver lace, her picture hat in black.

Domestic Science Expert.

A conference was held yesterday between the board of directors of the Junior league and the domestic science expert, Miss Heath, who spent the day in the city, coming from North Carolina, where she is now engaged, to learn the plans of the league for their school for household arts, and to discuss her probable engagement to take charge of the school.

A graduate in domestic science at Columbia university, and of the domestic training school at the Boston Y. W. C. A., Miss Heath is thoroughly equipped to handle in expert manner the courses of study and training the league proposes to establish.

A young woman of most pleasing personality, she reveals the high intelligence and the address for the duties of the new undertaking.

She heard the plans of the league, and laid before them a rough sketch of the curriculum she deemed advisable, dividing the work into a cookery course which would include every detail of marketing, food values and balance of food, menus, economy, the purchase and preparation of food in large quantities and in small; cooking for invalids, etc., and a second course, to cover household management. This last would include everything from the balancing of the family income with its purchasing power, to the proper manner of cleaning rugs and curtains.

Miss Heath returned last night to North Carolina and at an early date will submit her complete program.

The league hopes to have completed by May 1 their cooking laboratory, and the cookery course can then at once be inaugurated. The household management classes will begin upon the completion of the model flat, which is also in course of construction.

Among the guests were a number of the most noted amateur golfers in America.

W. D. POST PROMOTED.

Made Trainmaster of the Appalachian Division.

W. D. Post, local freight agent in Atlanta for the Southern Railway system, has been promoted to trainmaster of the Appalachian division at Bristol, Va.-Tenn., and C. G. Walker, formerly agent for the Southern at Louisville, Ky., has been promoted to the Atlanta agency, succeeding Mr. Post, these promotions becoming effective March 1.

Announcement of Mr. Post's promotion, which will be received with cordial interest by his many friends among the shippers and business men of Atlanta, as well as by his associates in the railway service, was made late Thursday afternoon following a meeting of all the employees of the local agency under Mr. Post, approximately eighty-five in number, who presented him with a handsome chest of silver as a token of their esteem for him. The speech of presentation was made by Claude D. Martin, chief claim clerk.

BOY SCOUTS' DUTIES IN EVENT OF WAR DEFINED BY LEADER

According to an announcement made Thursday by the chief scout executive master, James E. West, of New York, the Boy Scouts of America will be absolutely free from military duty in case of war, but they will lend every effort along lines in which they have been trained to aid the government.

Some of these duties will include rendering first aid to the injured, sending message by wire, wireless, or semaphore, co-operating in the protection of property by accepting definite assignments for the purpose of sounding an alarm in case of danger, and acting as messengers, as well as generally co-operating with agencies organized for relief work.

Over 200,000 boys, between the ages of twelve and eighteen, are on the roll of scouts, and over 50,000 men are enrolled as leaders in the scout movement. Within the past seven years fully 350,000 boys have come within the influence of the boy scout program and training, and this makes a force of 600,000 available for service.

No civic body has any authority over the scouts, their work being purely voluntary. The statement by the scout executive suggests that the scoutmasters throughout the country volunteer their services to the mayors of their cities for the above outlined purposes.

GIRL STAR WILL GO TO WAR IF ALLOWED TO WEAR TROUSERS

"Tommie" Allen will go to war if they'll let her wear trousers. It will be the chance for which she has yearned a whole lifetime.

In childhood she climbed trees, rolled down embankments and snowballed dignified and clerical pedestrians who wore silk hats. In girlhood she fought the boys of the neighborhood instead of flirting with them. And now she wants to dress as a man. She sees a chance in answering the summons of war.

"Tommie" Allen is headlining the Grand theater this week in a musical tabloid, in which she plays the part of a young and dimpled hurricane in skirts.

She has forwarded her application to the navy recruiting station of her home town, Orange, N. J. She makes the condition, however, that she will join only on condition she is permitted to wear trousers."

Mims Park in Need Of Improvements, Say Parent-Teachers

Claiming that they have been trying for two years to get certain needed improvements in Mims Park, but have failed utterly in their efforts, the members of the Parent-Teacher association of Davis Street school held an indignation meeting Wednesday afternoon, at which earnest protest against the treatment of the park were entered.

The members claim that even small improvements, requiring comparatively no expenditure have been denied them by the park board. Resolutions were adopted at the meeting expressing thanks to Chief Jentzen, of the sanitary department, and Construction Chief Collier, for aiding them in work they undertook themselves toward improving the park.

J. O. Cochran, manager of the park department, declared Thursday that the park board has provided a caretaker at the park, and that plots have been sodded, shrubs have been set out and the grounds are kept clean. He said further that the improvement committee of the park board made a special inspection of Mims park, and reported to the board that it is as well improved and well kept as any small park in the city.

"We have no appropriation for special improvements," said he, "either in Mims or the other small parks."

DIXIE CATTLEMEN ABLE TO PROVIDE BEEF FOR SOLDIERS

The large number of packing houses which have been established in the southern states in the past three or four years, and the constantly increasing size and number of beef cattle herds which are being raised on southern ranges are destined to play a large part in the provisioning of southern troops, according to Neely Bowen, secretaary of the Southern Cattlemen's association, who is now arranging for the fifth annual convention of that association in this city April 4, 5 and 6.

"The work which our organization has done during the five short years of its life," he states, "has awakened such a response from Virginia to Texas, that the south now finds herself in a position to provision her own troops with very little help from the packers of the west.

"Thus the cost of provisions is reduced at the same time that it leaves the railroads free for the transportation of troops and munitions. The home-grown idea is not only the economic one, but is above all one of military necessity.

"At the meeting of the Southern Cattlemen's convention next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, some of the leading men of the industry will be present, representing a large proportion of the available beef supply of the southern states. These men are going to tackle the problem of army provisioning as the chief question before the body, and they are going to show the government a surprisingly large source of supply right here."

In addition to discussing ways and means of meeting the present situation the convention will also push very vigorously its campaign for extending the available area devoted to the raising and breeding of blooded beef cattle. A number of the most influential owners and educators will be present and address the convention on this subject.

RECRUITING FOR ARMY BOOMING IN GEORGIA

Army recruiting is booming in Georgia right now. So great has been the number of applications for enlistment in the army that Captain G. V. Heidt, in charge of local recruiting, has been compelled to open a new sub-station in Atlanta, with Sergeant Henry J. Pearl in charge, specially assigned to this district from New York.

Sergeant Pearl's office was opened Thursday at 29 Peachtree—the Five Points station with entrance either on Peachtree or Marietta streets—and easy to find by any young man who is seeking an opportunity to join the army.

Captain Heidt said that he was delighted to find such a patriotic response to the army call as he had found in Georgia. Georgians are enlisting at the rate of 20 per day and are greatly exceeding the quota assigned to this state. It is a fact not generally known that the Atlanta postoffice led all the postoffices in this country in the last report with 94 recruits secured by Postmaster Jones' force for this district.

Begin To Purify Your Winter-Blood

But Not So Well As This Sulpherb Tablet—Sugar Coated.

Through the winter the blood accumulates poisons because you do not perspire enough, because you do not live in the open air, and because you eat more meat, mush and other rich foods. Every spring we feel sluggish, constipated, liver and kidney ills beset us, colds and chronic coughs, pimples, boils and carbuncles, all evidence of impure, thick, sluggish blood.

Sulpherb Tablets (not sulphur tablets) are composed of extracts of roots and herbs, combined with sulphur and cream of tartar—and no better physic, blood-tonic and blood cleanser has ever been developed. Every spring thousands who already know their value take them to purify the system of Winter Poisons. Now is the time to begin, so you won't be attacked by serious ailments when Spring and Summer come. Sold by all druggists 50c per sealed tube with full directions.

FRECKLES

March Worst Month For This Trouble—How to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly everybody freckles in March, but happily there is also a remedy for these ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get an ounce of othine, double strength, from your druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and in a few days you should see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they may stay all Summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Your money back if othine fails.

ENGINEER NEARLY HELPLESS AT THE END OF HIS RUN

Couldn't Straighten Up at Times When He Left Engine—Tanlac Ends Troubles and He's Now in Fine Shape.

"I was in such a bad fix before I took Tanlac that at times I couldn't walk," said David A. Middleton, 1717 Chenevert, Houston, Tex., recently. Mr. Middleton has been employed by the Southern Pacific railroad for twenty-five years; twenty years as engineer and five years as fireman.

"For fifteen years," he continued, "I suffered with something like asthma and painful disordered kidneys. I kept doctoring and taking medicines, but kept going down hill. I was constipated and sometimes I was so nervous I couldn't stand anyone around me. My food would not digest and up to my second bottle of Tanlac I wouldn't dare eat any supper. Gas would form on my stomach after eating and press on my lungs and heart so I could hardly breathe, and lots of times I suffered so I couldn't go out on my run at all. Many a time, after making a trip, I have crawled off my engine with my back hurting so I would have to walk a hundred yards or so before I could straighten up, and lots of times I was in such a bad condition I couldn't walk at all.

"All these troubles are over with since I began taking Tanlac. I have already gained eleven pounds and feel like I am still gaining every day. I haven't had a spell of any kind since I took my second bottle and I have gotten rid of all the pain across my back and kidneys and my stomach is in fine shape. I can actually eat sausage or any kind of meats, even at night, and go to bed and sleep like a child, and I'm not troubled any more with shortness of breath. Before I took Tanlac, when the weather was rainy and close, I never thought of going out, but now I can go out and trot around in any kind of weather and feel fine. I used to suffer torture with headaches, but they're all gone, too, and, in fact, Tanlac has just built me up until I feel like a new man."

MEETING IS CALLED ON "PREPAREDNESS" FOR FIFTH OF APRIL

The Committee of Public Safety, appointed by Ivan E. Allen, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, met yesterday at the chamber of commerce and decided to issue calls to every commercial organization in the southeastern states asking that they send representatives to Atlanta April 5 to discuss with the Atlanta Committee of Public Safety plans by which the south can co-operate with the federal government in the work of preparedness. All bankers of the southern states are also urged to attend, for upon them depends greatly the success of the movement.

The committee shall take immediate action in bringing before the southern people the absolute necessity of a self-supporting south. At present the south is dependent on other sections of the nation for much of their food supplies and in case of war would be instantly thrown in a precarious condition. In connection with the work of national preparedness the committee is emphasizing the need of economical preparedness for the south. The arrangement of waterworks and roads so as to be advantageous to the march of an army in case of war is being discussed.

The Atlanta committee is composed of the following citizens: Mell R. Wilkinson, chairman; J. K. Orr, P. S. Arkwright, A. M. Schoen, Forrest Adair, E. P. McBurney, Tull C. Waters, J. M. B. Hoxsey and H. Y. McCord.

LEON W. WASHBURN IN ATLANTA TO SEE CIRCUS PERFORMERS

Leon W. Washburn, probably the oldest showman in the business, came to Atlanta from his home in Chester, Pa., yesterday to get another whiff of the sawdust and reach through the bars to pet old Vixen, one of his favorite lions. He spent the day at the Confederate carnival at the Jackson street show grounds, loafing around the lot and soaking up Georgia sunshine.

"I don't join the show more than two or three times a year," he said. "Manager Turner is on the job, and that satisfies me. But, along in the spring, when the trees begin to bud, I feel something tugging at me.

The carnival was in full blast Wednesday afternoon and last night, with big crowds on the Midway watching the Greggs do their loop-the-loop in automobiles and patronizing the twenty or more shows.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY, ASSERTS FORECASTER

Fair weather for today and Saturday is the forecast of the official weather man. It will grow warmer today and there will be a real touch of spring. There are no barometric conditions that indicate a return of the rainy days.

Temperatures will go higher in Georgia and Alabama, in which states light frosts have been reported.

ATLANTA BANK WILL FURNISH $1,500,000

Amount Federal Reserve Institution Here Will Lend Government Is Announced.

Governor Joseph A. McCord received Thursday notice from the treasury department of Washington that the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank will be called upon to furnish $1,500,000 of the $50,000,000 loan which the government is making for ninety days.

Mr. McCord notified the treasury department that this sum will be placed to the credit of the treasury Saturday, March 31, which is the day the sum is desired by the government. The Atlanta Federal Reserve bank already has the money on deposit in the gold settlement fund of the reserve banks at Washington, and the only thing the Atlanta bank will have to do is to place the amount desired to the credit of the treasury department—"to change it from one pocket to the other," as Governor McCord puts it.

Ready to Make Loan.

The treasury department made inquiry of Mr. McCord several days ago as to whether the Atlanta bank was in position to supply a part of the loan. Governor McCord stated that this bank is prepared to advance its proportion of the loan, which proportion amounts to $2,150,000.

He was notified Thursday, however, that the sum had been over-subscribed, and all that would be asked of the Atlanta bank is $1,500,000.

Governor McCord explained that this $50,000,000 is not a war loan, but is simply to supply funds which may be used by the government for defensive preparations until the income tax is collected.

F. A. Delano, of Washington, member of the federal reserve board, arrived in Atlanta Thursday upon a trip of inspection to the Atlanta federal reserve bank.

Mr. Delano came to Atlanta after he had visited the federal reserve banks at Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis and Dallas. He stated that not only is the condition of the federal reserve banks good, but the general business conditions of the entire territory which he has visited are splendid.

Mr. Delano will probably leave for Washington Friday.

Distribution of $50,000,000.

Washington, March 29.—The $50,000,000 borrowed yesterday by the government for ninety days is distributed among the twelve federal reserve banks, it was announced today, as folows:

New York, $20,000,000; Boston, $3,000,000; Philadelphia, $3,500,000; Cleveland, $3,500,000; Richmond, $2,000,000; Atlanta, $1,500,000; Chicago, $5,000,000; St. Louis, $2,500,000; Minneapolis, $2,000,000 Kansas City, $2,500,000; Dallas, $2,000,000; San Francisco, $2,500,000.

The over-subscription, it was announced, as approximately 33 per cent, the total subscriptions voluntarily offered by the banks aggregating $66,650,000.

Certificates probably will be issued April 2. The issuance of the certificates on this date would bring their naturity to July 1, the first day of the new fiscal year. The certificates bear interest at the rate of 2 per cent a year.

If You Have Business With George Hickman Wait Until Next Week

If there's anybody in this audience who happens to have any business this week with George H. Hickman, manager of the Forsyth theater, here's a tip for him—put it off until next week.

Manager Hickman used to live in Richmond, Va.; still cherishes a notion that Richmond is the next thing to Atlanta, and there's a big sprinkling of Richmond on the Keith vaudeville program of the week.

Result: From the minute Genevieve Clark and her company appear in "A Breath of Old Virginia," scenes of which are laid in Richmond, until Al Lloyd and Chappie Aveling, the "Two Southern Gentlemen," who were born and reared in Richmond, have finished their act, George Hickman is "beating" the house out of some perfectly good coin by occupying a seat.

At other times callers wishing to see the manager would be forced to break past the Cerebus who guards the stage door, for Mr. Hickman, ten to one, is in the dressing room of Messrs. Aveling and Lloyd, "swapping" stories with them on old Virginia.

Mr. Lloyd has a sister, Mrs. Harry Epps, who lives in Atlanta.

Southern Railway Has Apprentice Squad For Traffic Department

Opportunity for ambitious young southern men, university graduates preferred, to secure training which will fit them for responsible positions in the freight traffic department of the Southern railway system is offered through the apprentice squad which the Southern has organized in its general freight office at Atlanta. The squad is now composed of eleven young men, and, as it will be kept up to this number, openings for new members will develop as present members are promoted to other positions.

Authorities of leading southern universities have been asked to recommend deserving young graduates who may be listed for places on this squad, but applications of young men who have only completed high school courses, but are otherwise acceptable, also will be given consideration.

At the start members of the squad are paid $40 per month. After six months' service the pay of those who progress has been satisfactory will be advanced to $50 per month. After that promotion will come to them as they make themselves capable of filling vacancies occurring in positions ahead of them, all such promotions being made on the basis of demonstrated fitness and ability.

CHILDREN'S MATINEE TO DRAW BIG CROWDS

The censorship committee of children's motion pictures announce that for Saturday they have secured "Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" and "How Plants Breathe." The latter picture will be of great value to the children from a horticultural standpoint.

These Saturday morning matinees for children at the Grand theater are attracting large crowds. The epidemic of measles that has been in progress is now over and it is sure that the attractive program will draw a packed house.

"BONE-DRY" GEORGIA.

Convoked in extraordinary session to enact "bone-dry" legislation, the general assembly has met, legislated and adjourned.

In the "bone-dry" act there is, apparently, not a loophole. It is as drastic, as non-compromising, as comprehensive as the law which says "Thou shalt not kill!"

It admits of no intermediate construction; it embodies the ultimate of prohibition!

Now it remains to be seen whether or not the charge that its own very superlativeness will break it down; can in fact be made to lie against it.

This, it must be admitted, will rest very largely in the manner of the law's enforcement.

Beyond question there is general, statewide, popular sentiment in Georgia against liquor solicitation in, and liquor shipments into, the state; but it isn't by any means as certain that public sentiment will approve of a law that will classify as a criminal today the man who legally purchased yesterday, and now retains such home supplies of liquor as were purchased and placed in his home in strict accordance with the law.

Every man or woman in Georgia who today has one drop of intoxicating liquor in his or her house—even wines for culinary or medicinal purposes—is a law-breaker.

Certainly to the end of the first day there have been no reports of general contributions of liquors to the gutter, which unquestionably means that already the state contains many thousands of "bone-dry" law infractors.

But that does not prove lack of merit in the law.

It does prove, though—and simply—that in the violation of the law in its least respect there is danger of its violation in its most serious respect.

As an illustration:

Let us say that a man retains a quart bottle of whisky, which he had in his home when the law went into effect. He holds it in violation of the law, and is made a criminal by the very extreme provisions of this act.

Will public sentiment demand that he be punished along with the blind tiger? And if public sentiment does not, then that provision of the law is not only unwise, but it is injurious.

The three pillars supporting the arch—"Constitution"—in the design of the great seal of the state of Georgia are labeled "Wisdom," "Justice" and "Moderation!"

In those three words is embodied the very essence of all the guidance the law enforcement authorities of Georgia need in the enforcement of this or any other law!

"That which is best administered, is best!"

For many years Georgia has been kept in a state of unrest by prohibition agitation. Today what so many have wanted and demanded has come to pass: We have a "bone-dry," air-tight, extremest of extreme prohibition law.

Largely upon the manner of its administration and enforcement will depend its success or failure.

ABOUT TIME TO ACT.

Governor Henderson, of Alabama, has taken timely action in ordering the state attorney general to file impeachment proceedings against the sheriff of Jefferson county, from whose custody seven prisoners, three of them murderers under death sentence, were permitted to escape a few days ago, resulting in three subsequent "killings."

The governor sets forth in his order that this sheriff repeatedly has been warned by county grand juries against a continuance of his alleged laxity in safeguarding the public from just such desperate criminals in his keeping, and therefore his badge of office is demanded.

While the state of Alabama is about the job of disciplining sheriffs an investigation, at least, of the sheriff of Russell county would not seem out of place.

Under the very nose of that law-enforcement official, it has been alleged, 200 cases of whisky were surreptitiously transported from a warehouse in Girard, Ala., through a tunnel and across the Chattahoochee river into Columbus, in prohibition Georgia.

It is unthinkable that such a comprehensive undertaking as that could be carried out without a diligent official's having even an inkling of what was going on.

If the Russell sheriff knew what was being done and winked at it, he is guilty of malfeasance and ought to be punished. If he didn't, then he must have been asleep, or is too stupid to be a competent sheriff.

It is about time for Governor Henderson to become active in checking up on the official behavior of his state's sheriffs.

PROHIBITION COMMISSIONERS.

Despite the fervent desire of Governor Harris and other devotees to the principle of "bone-dry" prohibition, the legislative act as it stands is without a provision for special machinery to enforce it. Certain friends of the prohibition cause, the governor foremost among them, insisted to the last that the act provide for the employment of a "prohibition commissioner" for this purpose, and they are bemoaning the fact that the legislature decreed otherwise.

But the legislature did right in leaving that clause out of the law.

In the first place, when Governor Harris and his prohibition allies presume that Georgia is without a "prohibition commissioner" they are in error. There are hundreds of them in the state.

The state attorney general is now a "prohibition commissioner;" the solicitor general and every one of his assistants in every county is one; so is every sheriff, every sheriff's deputy; every police chief, every policeman and every detective in Georgia is now and henceforth a prohibition commissioner; as is the United States marshal, every deputy United States marshal, every federal internal revenue collector, every federal revenue agent operating in Georgia. In short, every public official charged with the enforcement of the law, by his oath of office automatically became a prohibition commissioner the moment the "bone-dry" prohibition law became an actuality and subject to enforcement.

We do not require a "murder commissioner" to enforce the law penalizing homicide in Georgia; we need no "larceny commissioner" nor "burglary commissioner" to enforce the law against theft of property; the law proscribes the speed at which automobiles may be driven on streets and highways, yet it is enforced without an "automobile-speeding commissioner" to enforce it; we have found no occasion for a "trespass commissioner" to prosecute violations of individual property rights, and no occasion has arisen thus far to warrant the creation of an office of "narcotic commissioner" to enforce the state and federal laws inhibiting the use of opiates and other narcotic drugs.

So long as the city, county, state and federal peace authorities can and do enforce all of these laws, it is reasonable, and only fair to them, to presume that they can and will enforce the liquor prohibition law.

THE BOY SCOUTS.

A forceful demonstration of what their discipline and training have done for them was afforded by the manner in which the Atlanta Boy Scouts saw to the seating of the great audience of 7,000 men and women in the Auditorium upon the occasion of former President Taft's address in Atlanta last week.

The handling of the crowd was left to the Boy Scouts, and the young fellows discharged their duty with the smoothness and precision of trained ushers. There was no confusion, no discord, no delay. As the people poured in a stream into the great edifice they were taken in tow by the young khaki-clad scouts, diverted this way or that, and the seating capacity of the hall was filled systematically and without friction.

That is what training does for a boy. It makes him of real worth to the community while he is growing to manhood. And there is no other institution in existence which imparts this particular sort of training like the Boy Scouts of America.

Not only upon occasions like the handling of the crowds in Atlanta a few days ago do the Boy Scouts arise to the emergency and make their elders proud of them, but they have been proven equally efficient in time of stress and disaster. We have, for proof of this, but to recall their performance in connection with the great Dayton flood and similar national calamities, when their efficiency and heroism was put to the test and was found not wanting in any particular.

The Boy Scout movement makes for better physical development, better deportment, better mentality; it makes for better manhood and better American citizenship. And it merits every ounce of encouragement and impetus it can receive.

It is pretty safe to bet that there were between eleven and thirteen statesmen who didn't take advantage of the congressional recess to go back and visit the home-folks.

If only some genius were to discover the combination to Davy Jones' locker when the U-boats cease replenishing it!

By FRANK L. STANTON.

The Snake and the Bonedry Bill.

I.

"For years and years," said the Snake,
"They've slandered me at their will,
But things are changed,
Since at last they've ranged
In the grip of the Bonedry Bill!
And this is the word that I have to say:
'Even a Snake will have his day!'

II.

"They went their ways to the woods
With gun, and rod, and line;
Oh, they made the trip
With a bulging hip
Of 'Snakebite Remedy' fine!
And I tried to hide, but I couldn't slight 'em,—
They prayed so hard for a Snake to bite 'em!

III.

"Oh, 'tis now I shall have my day!—
There'll be never a moonshine still
They can blame on ME
Where I wander free—
Scotfree, through the Bonedry Bill!
The Snakebite Remedy's day is o'er:
I'll hear the gurgle of flasks no more!

IV.

"I have burdens enough to bear,
But—no more tales, I say,
Of the Snake that crept
Where the campers slept
And bit 'em at break o' day!
For the winds q' the wildwoods echo still:
'It's the snakeless day of the Bonedry Bill!'"

Literary Club Disbands.

"At a well-attended meeting of our Literary club," says a Georgia exchange, "the meeting voted that 'the club do hereby disband and enlist for the war. Real Spring Poem.

"A peach blossom.
A yellow crocus.
A mockingbird.
The genial warmth of the sunshine.
The bursting buds.
A daring, yet shrinking violet.
A baseball and a bat
And a fan poring over the sporting page."

Asked and Answered.

Editorial paragraph in The Alpharetta Free Press:

"If supplies keep on going up, and the boll weevil keeps on a-comin', and the negroes continue to trek, and Prophet Snider doesn't stop the rains, where in the dickens are we to make any cotton in 1917? Where?"

And the answer, from a dozen sources, is:

"Raise real food crops; and just consider how the grass will grow to feed the home-raised live stock!"

The Gift of the Mothers.

Folger McKinsey sings of what the mothers of the land give to war:

"Brave are the mothers,
The sweethearts and wives;
To their land, with the others,
Giving their lives—
For they give what they love best—
The loved that they hold
With good-byes on a warm breast
And arms that enfold."

"Bless 'Em!"

Poet Lewis, of The Houston Post, sings of "Woman's Rights:"

"A judge says women have a right
To go through hubby's clothes at night;
But if they had no right they'd take it,
When a law denies that right they'll break it."

Word From Br'er Williams.

"I won't git my Christmas dram next time in Georgy state," said Brother Williams. "I done made up my mind ter dat; but dar's two ole colonels what knows me, yonder, in Kentucky, an' ez I'll have ter travel slow, I'm startin' right now fer dat ole state, an' I reckon I'll git dar 'fo' Christmas!"

The Czar.

(Written in 1906.)

"Wherever there are men of liberal minds; wherever there is a belief in democracy, people are rejoicing wholeheartedly that the Russian autocrat, disgraced by innumerable cruelties and massacres, perpetrated during his reign, has been driven from his throne."—The Nation, March 22, 1917.

I.

Death-shadowed scion of despotic Czars,
How worthless are thy scepter and thy crown,
The splendors that encircle thy renown,
Palace and court, and hoarded spoil of wars;
In thy vast realm what poorest peasant clown
Would change his hovel for thy palace bars?

II.

Thou wouldst give up all these, fear-haunted king,
For that with which the meanest kind is blest,
For peaceful days, and nights of sweetest rest,
For freedom of a bird upon the wing,
For faith and love of an unselfish breast,
For all that makes of life a blessed thing.

III.

I pity thee, thou harlequin of State,
Mock majesty, perched on a shaking throne,
Who cannot even call his life his own;
Eyes watch thee, sleepless lynx-like eyes of Hate;
For all thy baleful crimes thou must atone,
Doodmed art thou by inexorable Fate.

—CHARLES W. HUBNER.

To Be a Boy Again.

I.

When you some time are all alone, and then
The mask that you must wear you throw aside,
You, from yourself, will try no more to hide
This truth: You long to be a boy again.

II.

You may, with genius or with gifted pen,
Have won such rank as brought an honored name,
And yet, you'd sacrifce immortal fame—
Aye, give it all to be a boy again.

III.

Though you may stand among exalted men,
With wealth and power at your every call,
Deep in your soul you know you'd leave it all
Just for the chance to be a boy again.

IV.

As years go by and you grow old, and when
The days have come that make you love to dwell
Upon the past, you'll more and more rebel
Because you cannot be a boy again.

V.

That same sad yearning—heritage of men—
Comes to us all, as Age bids Youth good-bye,
It is a fantasy o'er which you sigh,
For you will never be a boy again.

—GORDON NOEL HURTEL.

Skyline Sketches of Atlanta Life

He literally climbed up on the water wagon and as literally fell off. And all on the bone dry eve.

B. C. Hirskein was in the police court yesterday afternoon charged with having been picked up "dead drunk" on the street just one hour after the governor of Georgia had signed the bone dry law. His face was badly bruised and his clothing was muddy.

"Judge," he said woefully, "I celebrated the passing of Old Jorn Barleycorn last night, determined that after he had gone I would keep sober. Somewhere down town I fell off a wagon or something and was badly hurt."

The officer said:

"This man tried to climb up on one of the city's street sprinklers and fell off."

"That's good," remarked the recorder. "He really got up on the water wagon."

"Yes, and fell off," remarked the prisoner.

"We will charge you $3.75 for the short ride," the recorder said. "The next time, get up on the sure enough water wagon and stay there."

Dorothy, Girl Detective.

Dorothy is the youngest blind tiger detective in the city. The rest of her name is not given, because when she testified in the police court yesterday afternoon she made a particular request that nothing be done or said that might injure her papa, and to give her full name might give her papa away.

Dorothy told the recorder that last Monday when she saw that her papa was naughty and was drinking again she followed him down the street.

"And I watched him," she stated, "and saw him buy a bottle of mean old whisky from a negro man. I ran into a store and got somebody to call for a policeman and the negro was arrested, and this is him now in court that you call a blind tiger.

"That was a fine piece of work," Recorder Johnson told her, "and you are a great detective. If we had more little girls like you, the state of Georgia might not have any need of a bone dry law."

The blind tiger was "sent up" to the state courts.

How Georgia First Stopped Secession And Later, by Close Vote, Failed in Effort

The Georgia Historical society is one of the notable institutions of Georgia.

Its work in collecting and publishing important information and papers has been the means of preserving much of the data of our history which would otherwise have been lost.

While properly located at Savannah as the oldest city of the state, where our history began, it is not a local institution, but one that deals with the whole state, and should be supported by Georgians everywhere.

The society has just celebrated its 78th anniversary. This is usually celebrated on February 12, the anniversary of the founding of Georgia as a colony; but owing to repairs which were being made in its hall, these exercises were adjourned to March 21, when they were held.

The society has begun the publication of a quarterly magazine dealing with subjects of interest to the entire state and has entered into a movement to extend its activities and membership all over Georgia; this anniversary, therefore, was one of special interest.

The address on this occasion was delivered by Alexander C. King, one of the most scholarly members of the Atlanta bar, who chose as his subject, "Georgia's Influence on the Secession Movement," which he considered not only as a past historic event, but as conveying lessons for future guidance.

In opening his address, after calling attention to the great influence a people's history had on future generations, and the value of history as a teacher, Mr. King well pointed out the great service the Georgia Historical society had rendered to the entire state, and the great work it had done. He said:

"It is this society which has fostered an interest and pride in our colonial, revolutionary and earlier state history and preserved so much that it is valuable for future generations.

"To that feeling of pride in the history of Georgia which created this society, and which it in turn has nourished may be attributed in large part that high sense of duty to ideals which has caused the men and women of this fair city to lead in the van on every call which Georgia has made upon her sons and daughters—a spirit which enables this society to point to names upon its roll where each generation from its founding until now has sent its representatives to serve under the flag of state and country.

"It is a matter, then, of moment and congratulation to the entire state that this guardian and teacher of its honorable history should widen its scope, and that its members and influence should be extended from the seaboard to the mountains, from the Savannah to the Alabama line; that in meeting the grave problems with which the near future is crowded we should have Georgians everywhere inspired by a knowledge of her past history and nerved to meet the future in such manner as is worthy of her highest ideals and achievements."

Georgia's Union Affiliation.

The address then called attention to the fact that secession and the ensuing war was the most important crisis through which the state ever had passed; that a study of its history and the action and motives of the participants was of value in the light of the present grave situation of the country.

Rapidly surveying the history of Georgia's earlier relations to the United States government, it was shown that Georgia had from the first favored a closer union, and had thrown her influence in support of establishing an efficient government.

She afterwards unanimously ratified the constitution, being the first southern state to do so. Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, was quoted to show that at that time everybody believed that the constitution was regarded as an experiment, and that a state had the right peaceably to leave the union if she thought it a failure.

Georgia almost at once got into collision with the United States supreme court. That court held that an individual could sue the state in that court. The state ignored the court, would not even appear, and it and the other states amended the constitution so as to stop all such suits.

The federal government had agreed, in consideration for Georgia ceding to the United States the territory between the present Alabama line and the Mississippi, all of which was then in Georgia, to extinguish the Indian title to the lands in the rest of the state.

The state and the government clashed over the dilatory methods of the government. The state claimed jurisdiction over all of this territory, defied the order of the federal government not to go into it, would convict men for offenses committed in the Indian country, and when they took their cases up to the supreme court of the United States maintained that the supreme court had no jurisdiction in these matters over the state, and executed the sentences of the Georgia courts in the regular way, regardless of the United States supreme court.

In all these things Georgia finally prevailed, and while she resented the charge that she meant to break up the union, she intensified the idea of state sovereignty as against the federal government.

So, while in the north the idea grew that the general government was superior to the states, in the south the paramount authority of the state was believed in.

The Secession Movement.

The agitation of the abolitionists, the conflicts over admitting California into the union as a free state, the quarrels about slavery in the territories and the District of Columbia and over the fugitive slave laws, so intensified the friction that in 1850 the south was rapidly moving towards secession.

A convention to determine what Georgia should do had been called by the legislature.

Mr. Clay had passed his last compromise bill through congress, but the south was dissatisfied and alarmed and secession seemed inevitable.

Mr. Toombs, Mr. Stephens and General Howell Cobb, who favored the compromise, came to Georgia, stumped the state, and when delegates to the convention were elected a reaction had been produced and union men were almost everywhere elected.

The convention almost unanimously adopted a platform known in history as the Georgia platform, accepting Clay's compromise as a settlement, pledging Georgia's devotion to the union, and refusing to consider then seceding, while warning the north that a failure to live up to the compromise would produce secession.

The Georgia platform became the rallying ground of the union men in other states, and they succeeded on its principles in defeating the advocates of immediate secession, even in South Carolina and Mississippi—the states most favoring secession.

Secession was thus prevented in 1850-1851, largely by the influence of Georgia.

The compromise, however, was not lived up to. In 1860 the abolitionists elected their candidate and the south again considered secession.

South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida and Alabama had gone out, but by a close vote in Alabama and Florida. No others had acted.

Georgia's Close Vote.

In Georgia the leaders were divided, Stephens, B. H. Hill, Herschel V. Johnson and others opposed immediate secession. Georgia's convention met and for two days debated the question, and in a convention casting 297 votes the resolution for immediate secession carried by only 31 votes.

A change of 16 votes would have defeated it.

After Georgia acted Louisiana and Texas went out, but Arkansas, Tennessee and North Carolina at first refused, and they, with Virginia, only seceded after the fall of Sumter and Lincoln's call for troops to conquer the south.

If Georgia had voted not to secede then, with Tennessee and North Carolina refusing to secede, South Carolina would have been cut off from all the other seceding states; Florida would have nearly been so. The effect of Georgia's action would have greatly influenced all the rest. The attack on Sumter probably would not have occurred and terms of accommodation might have been reached.

The postponement of secession, with the rapid development of manufactories, iron mines, etc., then beginning in the south, and the enormous growth of the north which came on, might have altered the entire situation and made secession impracticable in the opinion of the south.

So that as Georgia stopped secession in 1850-1851, by resolving to remain in the union, she probably failed to prevent it by resolving to go with it in 1860.

Former Georgia Man, Full Of Western Spirit, Wants To See Atlanta "Wake Up"

Editor Constitution: Please allow an interested visitor to your city to congratulate you on your editorial in regard to Atlanta "Waking Up."

I have been visiting here for several weeks and a constant reader of all your daily papers and have often wondered at the absence of more progressive-spirited editorials therein.

Atlanta reminds me of a great giant with a much-neglected sense of outward appearance—great of strength and aware of his powers, but in a seeming state of apathy. After having spent some time in most every large city of our country, and lived for a long time in the great hustling wide-awake west, Atlanta's apparent neglect of her great opportunities stands out alarmingly to a western visitor.

Geographically the gateway of the mighty south, topographically her situation and environment grand, she should, with the western dash and vim, spring forward with rapid strides to the foremost rank of great cities.

Everything to Make Great City.

You have at your very doors everything to make a great city, but you appear to be sleeping upon your opportunities, just content to jog along with only a minimum of exertion, just content to live in the manner and spirit of the old-time south.

In no city that I have visited have I been so impressed with a sense of being again back in the old-time south, Dixieland, as I have in Atlanta. Dear old easy-going Dixieland, with its precious traditions, must give way to the dash and vim of modern times if it would not retrograde and be left in the rear.

Your ancient cobblestone street paving, and your "before-the-war" style of sidewalks and paving are a positive detriment, drawback, to a modern, progressive city.

Bad Roads Drawback.

Your people should recognize the fact that this is an automobile age and that the cities of today that are ranked as the greatest and most progressive have recognized the impossibility of making rapid strides forward without providing up-to-date roads for automobile and truck traffic. The capitalist and man, who makes the desirable citizen, who goes prospecting, will almost invariably "pass up" the community of bad roads where he cannot use his automobile to the fullest extent. He has no hankering after these "liver regulator" cobblestone roads, which shake him and his machine up "before" getting there and also "after" and puts his machine in the shop once a week.

Next to her climate, California's greatest asset, which has and is at present continuing to make that state the greatest in the United States, is her magnificent roads, not only in all her cities, but throughout the state. This asset sends thousands to settle within her borders yearly.

She only recently voted $5,000,000 additional bond issue to continue the good work.

I was born in Dixieland, but have lived in the Golden West long enough to have imbibed that western "get there" spirit. So let The Constitution keep hammering at Atlanta until you get her awake. She has the people and the money, if you can wake her up.

J. A. M'NABB.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

DIABETES.

Diabetes cannot be cured by any drug or combination of drugs known to science, nor by any bath, or diet, or other known method of treatment.

The disease is not an acquisition, not something taken by the patient, not an entity. Diabetes is merely the name given to the weakness of a bodily function, namely, the function of assimilating certain foods. Since it may be and is due to decidedly different causes in different cases—some trouble in a nerve center of the brain in one case, and a lesion of the pancreas in another—it is plain that any treatment purporting to cure diabetes is not to be taken seriously.

Scientific treatment will, however, enable the victim of diabetes to preserve reasonably good health and life indefinitely.

The first requirement in the management of any case not wholly beyond hope is a fast, lasting from three to six or eight days, long enough to clear the sugar from the urine, and for twenty-four or forty-eight hours longer. Then a limited diet which will support life without producing sugar in the urine. This is known as the Allen method, because worked out by Dr. Allen and associates of the Medical Research hospital of the Rockefeller institute, though the idea was given to us by Guelpa in Europe years ago.

Alkalies may be useful in the first few days, especially in cases with a tendency to stupor or coma—the great danger in neglected diabetes. The unconsciousness is a result of acidosis—poisoning by certain acids derived from fats in the food.

Once free of sugar in the urine, and of diacetic acid, the problem is to teach the patient that he must confine himself to a regimen consistent with his limited ability to metabolize or assimilate carbohydrates (sugars and starches) and, in a certain degree, fats. He must learn how to select a menu within the limitations determined in the study of his case—it varies in different patients, of course, according to the individual capacity to assimilate the foods named.

Some of the best things for diabetics to eat are lettuce, spinach, sauer-kraut, celery, cauliflower, rhubarb, cabbage, string beans, Brussels sprouts, clams, oysters, liver, fish roe, onions, turnip, squash, carrots, beets, oranges, strawberries, pineapple, nuts, green peas, parsnips, oatmeal, lean meat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

This Is Easy.

I am an office man, 54 years old, and have led a sedentary life for many years. During a great part of this time I have bled copiously from hemorrhoids. For weeks at a time I will bleed every day. I suffer no pain, but often feel weak and lack ambition. Have tried several physicians and every pile remedy my friends have suggested. What shall I do next? (F. F. R.)

ANSWER—Try a dose of steel, administered by a competent surgeon, under a pleasant anaesthetic like ether or nitrous oxide. Certainly no other method will cure you.

A Mere D. or a Skin D.?

Will you please suggest which doctor is better to go to, for one afflicted with syphilis, a M. D. or a Skin D.? (A. R.)

ANSWER—The skin manifestations of syphilis are the least serious effects of the disease. You should consult a mere doctor. Don't confuse the word specialist with the word skillful. Any licensed doctor may be a specialist in any branch of medicine tomorrow, if he wishes, without a single hour of special preparation. The law does not concern itself with the line of practice a physician follows. As I have said repeatedly, the competent specialist receives his patients from professional colleagues who desire his expert help.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. The names of writers are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column; but all inquiries will be answered by mail if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, care The Constitution.

Ex-Judge of Superior Court Criticises "Bone Dry" Act

Editor Constitution: The legislature which has just adjourned, judged by its proceedings, was the most irregular and abnormal body known in history. Its first session was an extraordinary one, which made a mess of the temperance laws. Its last session was extraordinary—no doubt about that—two extraordinary sessions dealing with one subject while others involving the credit and good name of the state were ignored. It assembled at a time when its successors had been elected and almost on the verge of their meeting. It left over, undone, much of vital importance for its successors to do. It had confidence enough in its successors to leave it to them to remedy its own shortcomings on all vital and urgent questions except the liquor laws. It was assembled for the avowed reason that it distrusted the white voters of the state. No candid man can truthfully deny this. Its purpose was to enact a law which those voters might not favor. Proof of this is based on the confessions of its leaders—who, however, sought afterwards in their shame to hide what they had in their candid but unguarded moments openly confessed. The majority from the beginning showed their distrust and suspicion. Each member had sworn: "I will support the constitution of this state," and the very first paragraph of that constitution says:

"All government, of right, originates with the people, is founded on their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole. Public officers are the trustees and servants of the people and at all times amenable to them."

Besides confessing that the purpose of the extraordinary session was to act for fear the newly-elected body might submit the question of a bone dry law to the white voters, every effort made to amend it for such purpose was voted down.

I challenge any man to show a parallel to the acts of this extraordinary body. Is there a case on record, not even barring reconstruction days, where two extraordinary sessions of a legislature were held to deal with the same subject, the last one after its successor had been chosen, and one the purpose of forestalling action by its successors of the same political party because their successors might submit the question to the people; and this they did with the constitution staring them in the face, saying "all government, of right, originates with the people."

Gentlemen, you have made the record. It stands. It is now history.

A vast majority of Georgians favor a sane and reasonable law regulating the traffic and preventing the abuse of the use of liquor in all forms. But they have a higher ideal than those who skim the surface of politics and seek to ride into place and power on a passing wave of prejudice engendered by a propaganda with a hired lawyer as its blustering henchman. Ashamed, indeed, you may be of "the power behind the throne," but it is there all the same.

JOHN J. HUNT,
Ex-Judge Flynt Circuit.

Decatur, Ga., March 29, 1917.

PROBLEMS CAUSED BY NEW "DRY" LAW

County and State Authorities Worried Over Disposition of Liquor Shipments in Express Offices.

Although there is no lengthy record of people who saw it happen, it is taken as a foregone conclusion that every citizen of Georgia who had any liquor or beer on hand Thursday morning took it right out in the back lot, smashed the bottle and poured the booze in the sewer as soon as he had learned that the "bone dry" law had become effective.

While he did not admit having taken the old ax and applied to the bottle, Governor Harris stated Thursday that he had complied with the law with respect to a certain bottle of very fine cognac brandy which a friend of his had sent him from France.

The story of the bottle of cognac at the governor's mansion had leaked about among his friends, and when he was asked about it he laughed and said:

"It is true, I did have a bottle of cognac brandy which a friend of mine had sent me from France, and he told me it was mighty fine, but I got rid of that a week before the "bone dry" bill ever passed. And when I say I got rid of it, I don't mean to say that I consumed it, either, for I never use liquor in any form."

Many Problems Faced.

Plunged overnight into absolute "bone dry" prohibition, Georgia found herself facing numerous more or less perplexing problems.

Chief among these have been the problem which the railroads find confronting them in regard to what disposition to make of liquor shipments in their depots, legally so on Wednesday, but illegally so on Thursday. Sheriff Lowry, of Fulton county, expects that, insofar as Fulton is concerned, the county authorities will decide Friday what shall be done with these liquors.

The Southern Express company is already making arrangements to ship such liquor as is in its depots back to points of origin.

Cannot Ship to Tennessee.

While no ruling has been made by any authority upon the point, there seems to be a pretty well defined opinion among attorneys that it will be possible to ship the liquors back to the points of origin, with the exception of points in Tennessee.

It appears, therefore, that liquor shipments in Georgia consigned from Chattanooga or other Tennessee points may present the greatest problem. Tennessee has a law which prohibits the shipment of liquor into that state, so that it appears impossible for shipments in Georgia from Tennessee to be returned. Certain it is that these liquors cannot be held in Georgia, so the chances seem to be that liquor shipped here from Tennessee will be destroyed.

Of such liquor there is a very considerable quantity. A representative of one of the railroads stated that his company has about 250 shipments on hand from Chattanooga.

First Shipping Arrangement.

The first arrangements for securing shipments under the "bone dry" reign were made through the ordinary's office Thursday afternoon by All Saints' Episcopal church for the observation of communion. Two gallons of wine were arranged for by church authorities.

Scores of druggists, churchmen and private citizens besieged the ordinary's office for particulars regarding shipment restrictions.

Ordinary Jeffries has not been apprised of the regulations of the law, neither has he been furnished with shipment blanks. Each applicant for liquor consignment must have his order made out in triplicate form, the first blank to be held by the applicant, the second to be turned over to consignor and the third to be placed in the hands of the shipper that it might be used as certificate of shipment.

Jewish organizations and private citizens appealed to the ordinary Thursday to be allowed to remove shipments already in the express office, for the purpose of observing the Passover. Because of the custom of celebrating this event largely in private homes, shipments of wines for Passover observances had been made to private citizens, and for this reason hope had been given up of the removal of these latter consignments from the express office.

Provision Made for Passover.

It is the opinion of President Ogden Persons, of the state senate, and of Speaker W. H. Burwell, of the house, however, that the "bone dry" law makes ample provision for obtaining wine for the observance of the Passover and other ritualistic religious observances wherein the use of wine is customary, even though the custom is observed in the home and not in the church or synagogue.

The law provides that wine may be ordered, upon permit from the ordinary, for "sacramental" purposes or for observance of "the Lord's Supper." The term, "the Lord's Supper," is taken to apply to what is known in the Christian denominations as the holy sacrament, while the term "sacramental" is taken to apply to any sacred religious observance.

The law makes provision that the permit from the ordinary must be obtained by the rabbi, in the case of the Jewish religions. The view held by the speaker and the president are that the rabbi would be charged with distributing the wine to the Jewish families for use in the Passover or other religious rituals observed in the home.

President Persons, however, is of the opinion that under the "bone dry" law the use of wine would not be extended to use as part of the ritual at weddings and at the naming of children, which is a part of the ritual of the Hebrews upon these two occasions.

There was Thursday considerable interest in the point of whether or not wine would be obtainable for the Passover, inasmuch as the Passover is to be observed one week from now.

It appears that while the rabbi may be authorized to order the wine for the use of the families in observing the Passover, he will not be able to obtain from depots any wine which may have already been sent there for the Passover. This arises out of the fact that the law requires that permits for ordering wine for religious observances be made out in triplicate; one copy to remain with the ordinary; one copy to be sent to the shipper of the wine, and returned with the shipment, while the third is delivered to the carrier as his authority to deliver the shipment. The fact that shipments of wine for sacramental purposes which may be in Georgia depots now have not attached to them a copy of a permit from the ordinary, it is held, makes it impossible for such shipments to be delivered.

Another Feature Discussed.

Another much-discussed feature of the law is section 23, which provides: "Be it further enacted, That any person, firm or corporation who shall, within this state, distill, manufacture or make any alcoholic, spirituous, vinous, malted or mixed liquors or beverages shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction therefor be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for not less than one year or longer than five years."

This section of the bill is aimed at "moonshiners," but the point was raised that it might also apply to manufacturers of "soft" drinks which contain a slight percentage of alcohol.

President Ogden Persons, of the senate, gave the off-hand opinion that the section would not operate against such manufacturers.

President Person's Opinion.

Senator Persons said:

"With reference to section 23 of the act, prohibiting the manufacture of what is known as soft drink beverages, which contain a small proportion of alcohol for preservative purposes only, this criticism is not well founded for the reason that the legislature defined in section 1 of the act the liquors and beverages whose manufacture, transportation and possession is prohibited by law, does not include any of the popular soft drink beverages, for the reason that same do not produce intoxication. In addition to this, section 3 of the act expressly provides for the transportation, receipt and use of pure alcohol for scientific, mechanical or medicinal purposes, and therein authorizes manufacturers to use the same.

"It is, therefore, the clearly expressed intent of the act, when construed as a whole, to allow the legitimate use of pure alcohol for all preservative purposes."

TWO BIG FIRES KEEP FIREMEN ON THE JUMP

City firemen were kept busy between 9 and 10 o'clock Thursday morning by two fires breaking out in the neighborhood of 246 Marietta street.

A blaze originated in the granary of the Alco Feed Mills, owned by Holbrook & Smith, at 17 Foundry street, just off Marietta, and threatened to destroy the entire plant for a while.

The flames shot so high into the air than soon afterwards sparks from this fire, the firemen state, ignited the roof of a two-story residence at No. 125 West Cain street, about a block away.

The roof and second story of this building were burned before firemen could extinguish the flames, because of a delay in arriving at the fire, due to torn-up pavement on Walton street.

NEGRO, FOUND DYING, BELIEVED A BURGLAR

A negro giving his name as Jim Jones, who died early Thursday morning underneath the Peters street viaduct before arrival of a Grady ambulance, is believed by the police to be the burglar who broke into Dr. H. C. Curtis' drug store at 119 Peters street and at whom Dr. Curtis fired five times as the negro fled upon discovery of his presence.

Jones was found about 5 o'clock by men going to their work. They questioned him and called Policeman Wiley, who also questioned him. He refused to give any information beyond that his name was Jim Jones. He died before a Grady ambulance arrived, his death being caused by a bullet hole in his chest.

Dr. Curtis, who sleeps in a bed room over his drug store, explains to the police that about 4 o'clock Thursday morning he had shot five times at a fleeing burglar in his store, and that he had retired when the negro ran off and he had no more bullets left in his pistol.

WOMEN WILL HELP BAPTIST HOSPITAL

Will Give $25,000 of the $100,000 Needed to Raise Purchase Price of Big Atlanta Institution.

Assuming $25,000 of the $100,000 hospital fund sought by Atlanta Baptists, the women of that denomination have greatly lightened the work of the committee of twenty-one now preparing to raise the full amount in a three-day whirlwind campaign, beginning April 3.

This action followed a called meeting held at the First Baptist church of the Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Sam P. Jones, chairman, when plans to raise the fund were discussed.

"This action has taken from our shoulders a great load," declared Dr. Henry Alfred Porter, pastor of the Second Baptist church, and who is also chairman of the committee of twenty-one representative Baptists. "We knew that the women were going to aid us, but to assume one-quarter of the entire amount needed and pledge this amount to the fund is more than we expected."

Concentrated Efforts Here.

The local campaign is being conducted in connection with and yet separate from the state-wide campaign to raise one-half million dollars for the aid of Baptist institutions of the state. Leaders of the movement, realizing that the Baptist hospital is one of the principal institutions of the denomination, instructed Atlanta's ministers and laymen to concentrate their efforts in raising sufficient money to meet the purchase price of this institution.

The campaign, though a part of the state-wide campaign, is different in that pledges are made unconditionally. The payment of the pledge made for the local institution is not contingent on the raising of the $500,000 for state-wide purposes. Again, this amount is to be applied solely to the purchase price of the hospital property. Not one cent is to be devoted to payment of interest or the current support of the institution.

To properly handle the undertaking, the members of the denomination have through their committee of 21 formed a working organization of 100 men, who, under ten captains of ten teams, will canvass the city for a three-day whirlwind campaign beginning April 3. All preliminary work of the organization is being brought to a point of perfection and when the campaign begins it is expected that the three days will see the full balance, $65,000, safely obtained. $10,000 has already been subscribed in addition to the $25,000 the women will take care of.

Captains of Teams.

The captains chosen to head the ten teams are W. W. Orr, A. R. Colcord, F. J. Cooledge, Sr., W. W. Gaines, J. E. Raley, Hugh M. Willet, Dr. C. W. Daniel, Dr. J. F. Purser, W. W. Brookes and E. L. Harling. In charge of the entire campaign will be Dr. Porter, chairman of the original committee.

During the campaign each day will see a meeting of the hundred workers at some uptown hotel where luncheon will be served and the work of the campaigners discussed.

Sunday morning has been set aside by the Baptist churches of the city as "Hospital Sunday," and during the regular service hour the pastors will make special addresses in the interest of the campaign to be begun the following Tuesday. Also during this time laymen from other churches will address various congregations on the campaign as viewed from a business standpoint. These talks will be limited to 5 minutes for each speaker.

ATLANTA AUTOISTS LEAVE FOR MACON

A score or more good roads enthusiasts left Atlanta Thursday morning in automobiles, under the auspices of the Georgia State Automobile association, for Macon, to attend Good Roads day of the Chautauqua of the South, which will be held there Friday.

Homer C. George, in his Chalmers speed car, was the pacemaker of the tour. T. R. Gentry, chairman of the tours and roads committee of the association, and Addison M. O'Flint, managing director of the organization forces of the association, left with Mr. George. The Quick Tire Service company supplied the tour with an emergency car.

The party expects to return Saturday, stopping for lunch at Griffin.

Anna Howard Shaw Will Lecture Here For Local Suffragettes

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the well-known advocate of woman's suffrage, will lecture in Atlanta on April 20 on "Preparedness and the War." The lecture will be delivered at the Atlanta theater, under the auspices of three Atlanta suffrage organizations—the Suffrage Party of Georgia, the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association, and the Atlanta Woman's Suffrage league.

Elaborate plans for the coming of Mrs. Shaw are being made by the three organizations, and a central committee, composed of three members from each of these, is putting forth every effort to make the occasion manifestly significant.

The central committee is composed of Mrs. Beaumont Davison, Mrs. Emily McDougald, and Mrs. B. M. Blount, from the Suffrage Party of Georgia; Mrs. Amelia Woodall, Mrs. Rose M. Ashby, and Mrs. Emma T. Martin, from the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association, and Mrs. Francis Whitesides, Mrs. Elizabeth McCarthy and Mrs. G. D. Tysor, from the Atlanta Woman's Suffrage league.

Officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. Davison, permanent chairman; Mrs. Woodall, secretary, and Mrs. Tysor, treasurer.

Mrs. McCarthy was named chairman of the committee on arrangements, Mrs. Martin, chairman of the press committee, Mrs. Tysor chairman of the decoration committee, and Mrs. Davison chairman of the reception committee.

MANY MEN AND WOMEN TAKE DRUG TREATMENT

Several Victims of Habit Have Voluntarily Applied to the Recorder for Aid.

Since the city authorities have opened a hospital at the stockade for curing victims of the drug habit, men and women have voluntarily gone to Recorder George E. Johnson and asked him to send them to the hospital under thirty-day sentences.

Already ten young men are taking the cure, and on next Tuesday afternoon six women will begin the treatment. One of the young men is the son of one of the wealthiest and most prominent of Atlanta's citizens, and two of the women stand high socially.

As fast as the accommodations can be enlarged other victims of the drug habit will be taken care of until every user of drugs has had an opportunity to be treated.

Recorder Johnson, Mayor Candler, Councilman James N. Renfroe and other city officials are behind the plan to have the drug users cured and to rid the city of as many of them as possible.

Under the supervision of the superintendent of the city prison, a hospital has been fitted up on the farm. Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the state board of health, will give the patients a new cure for the drug habit which is said to have worked wonders in other cities. Dr. Harris believes that most of the drug victims can be either cured or placed on the road to recovery within thirty days. In a very few days, he says, they can do without the drug.

At the hospital there are two competent nurses. The patients are given every comfort and attention and will be dismissed as fast as the physician in charge thinks they can safely return to their homes.

Cases are being daily made by Officers M. A. Hornsby and W. A. McKinney, who have been specially detailed for that work. Any citizen, however, can have drug victims looked after by reporting the matter to the recorder, the chief of police or the night chief.

SENATOR SMITH SPEAKS TO EXCHANGE MEMBERS

The Atlanta Commercial exchange was addressed by Senator Hoke Smith yesterday at their luncheon meeting held in rooms of the Trust Company of Georgia building.

Senator Smith reiterated that the people of the United States had no war to make with the people of Germany, but with "German kaiserism and system of murder."

"As soon as the kaiser is beaten," said the senator, "peace will automatically be restored between Germany and the United States. There will be no other issue outstanding that the German and American peoples cannot agree upon."

MRS. GODBEE MAY WIN FIGHT FOR HER FREEDOM

Prison Commission Will Recommend Pardon to Governor Harris.

The state prison commission will act next week upon the petition pending before it for the pardon of Mrs. Edna Godbee, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of her husband and his second wife at Millen, Ga., several years ago. The action of the commission will favor a pardon, and the recommendation is expected to be transmitted to the governor immediately after the action is taken.

This was learned Thursday upon good authority.

It, therefore, appears that, if the governor follows the recommendation of the commission, Mrs. Godbee will have won her long fight for freedom by the 1st of May, if not earlier.

There is a possibility that the commission may send down a divided recommendation, but it is understood that two of the commissioners will vote to recommend a pardon.

102,400 Business Men have bought the new Encyclopaedia Britannica

WHY do so many business men purchase and use the new Encyclopaedia Britannica? Why sixteen times more business men and women than college professors and teachers? And twenty-five times more than clergymen?

The answer to these questions is the reason why YOU too should own this wonderful work.

And the answer is this:

Business today offers the great advantages—pays the largest dividends on brains and energy. Hence, it attracts ambitious young men and women in increasing numbers.

These form by far the largest class of investors in the new Britannica—and they have bought it to use as a means of getting up, or winning promotion to the preferred positions in the large railroad, financial, industrial and business organizations. For the Britannica is complete and authoritative in its practical information relating to every branch of business, whether you want to know about raw materials, manufacturing, markets, transportation, railroad rates, merchandising or finance.

Of the 160,000 sets of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica already sold, the number of sets and the proportion sold to persons of various classes are approximately as follows:

| | Sets Sold | Percentage |
|---|---|---|
| Business men | 102,400 | 64. |
| Lawyers | 11,200 | 7. |
| Physicians | 9,600 | 6. |
| Professors and Teachers | 6,400 | 4. |
| Clergymen | 4,000 | 2.5 |
| Miscellaneous | 26,400 | 16.5 |
| | 160,000 | 100. |

Thousands of letters from business men all over the country indorse the Britannica as a profitable investment for everyone who seeks to keep abreast of present-day demands.

John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Co., calls the Britannica "a clearing house of knowledge."

Hugh Chalmers, president of the Chalmers Motor Co., declares that the Britannica is of great value to "the young business man of today who needs to be thoroughly posted in order to prepare himself for promotion."

James B. Forgan, formerly president of the First National Bank of Chicago, recommends the Britannica as "almost a necessity to any one who wants to post himself on matters such as come almost daily to his attention."

E. P. Ripley, president of the great "Santa Fe" railroad system, says railroad men need it.

Professor Paul T. Cherington, chairman of the National Educational Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs, says: "You make it necessary for every alert business man to ask himself whether he can afford to get along without the Britannica."

Other well-known leaders in business who have purchased and use the Britannica include: Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Ex-Judge Gary, the head of the United States Steel Corporation; J. Ogden Armour, president of Armour & Co.; Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Among the large industrial corporations which own the Britannica are:

Pillsbury Flour Mills Co., Minneapolis; General Electric Co.; Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; American Trading Co., exporters; Singer Manufacturing Co.; Ford Motor Co., Detroit; Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., Rochester; and hundreds of others.

You don't want to buy the Britannica merely because these business men and business houses have it. But you do need it for the very same reasons that these business men and business houses own and use it.

No matter what your business interests are, whether you are the owner of a business, or just starting out, you need the Britannica for its practical, usable information.

Andrew Carnegie

one of the most successful business men in the world, gives this advice to ambitious young men:

"A half hour a day spent on a particular line of study is the best investment any man can make."

THE WINDOW LOOK IN

Please Move Forward

When cars are crowded, as during rush hours, the convenience and comfort of several passengers can be disregarded utterly by one, if that one persists in establishing himself in the aisle at the rear of the car and blockading passage toward the front.

Our conductors are instructed to request that standing passengers move always toward the front of the car. Conductors follow these instructions not in order to make more room for themselves, but to relieve crowded conditions that would ensue if all standing passengers were blockaded in the rear of the car.

Proper consideration toward others suggests that one proceed as far as possible toward the front of the car immediately after he boards it. Not only will this prevent undue crowding, but also it will redound to the benefit of him who practices it, for he will get home the sooner thereby.

Please bear this in mind and co-operate with us to whatever extent you can in our effort to increase the comfort and convenience of yourself and your fellow-passengers.

JAPANESE WARSHIP SUNK IN PACIFIC BY GERMAN RAIDER

Vancouver, B. C., March 29.—A dispatch to the Canadian News from Tokio says that a German raider has sunk a Japanese warship in the southern Pacific. The names of the vessels were not disclosed.

It was officially announced in Tokio about two weeks ago that a converted German cruiser had been sighted in the Indian ocean and was being traced by Japanese and British warships after the raider had sunk a Japanese freight ship. Prior to that two British steamships were reported to have been destroyed by an armed merchantman off Colombo, Ceylon.

DIVERSIFIED FARMING NEEDED BY COUNTRY

The Committee of Public Safety met at the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon for the purpose of developing plans for Atlanta's co-operation with the federal government for preparedness.

The committee appointed by Ivan E. Allen, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, is composed of Mell R. Wilkinson, chairman; J. K. Orr, P. S. Arkwright, A. M. Schoen, Forrest Adair, E. P. McBurney, Tull C. Waters, J. M. B. Hoxsey and H. Y. McCord.

The plan that the committee thinks most fitted to Georgia is to encourage, or demand, the diversion of a great portion of the state's farm lands to the production of foodstuffs. They also urge that seed be supplied the farmers at reasonable rates.

COL. W. H. PRESTON ENGAGED BY THE SOUTHERN BUSINESS COLLEGE; ENROLLMENT FOR APRIL BEGINS

Young People Flocking to the Southern Business College—Enlisting for War Will Creat Many Vacancies With Business Houses To Be Supplied by the Southern's Students.

Enrollment of pupils for April begins at the Southern Shorthand and Business University, and the indications point to another record-breaking attendance.

War preparations are causing a great stir. Many firms are going to lose their stenographers, bookkeepers and other help. These vacancies will have to be filled, and, of course, the business men are going to apply to the known business school that most thoroughly qualifies its students. Long ago have they learned that the Southern has this reputation.

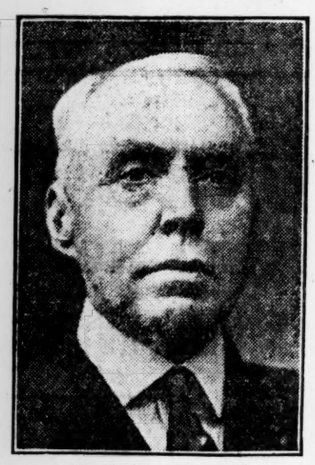

The thing to do, therefore, is to prepare NOW; enter the Southern next week; don't delay.

The Southern is growing all the time. Call and see the live school in operation; it will enthuse you.

Colonel W. H. Preston, well known in Atlanta and throughout the State, has been engaged by the Southern as representative and legal adviser of the institution, and is already actively at work.

Everybody knows Colonel Preston. He has been a leading factor in the city's administration for several years. Prior to this he was a prominent educator.

Colonel Preston will call upon those interested in business education and give them detailed information about the Southern Business College.

COL. W. H. PRESTON,
Well-Known Atlantan, Engaged as Representative and Legal Adviser of the Southern Shorthand and Business University.

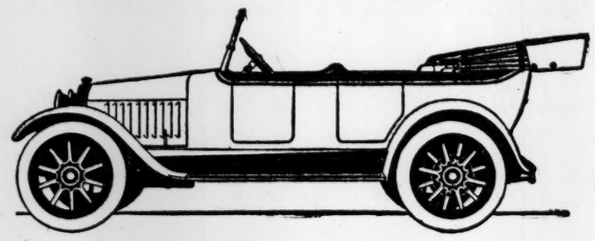

He will also be a member of the Southern's faculty and will lecture to the classes on business law.

Another great thing to popularize the "Southern:"

The sprinkler system has just been installed throughout the building, thereby making it fireproof. No more danger of fire; pupils and teachers are absolutely safe.

Now get ready for work. Take a course and you'll find the job. The school helps its pupils in this respect. Ask Atlanta's business men and they'll advise you to prepare at the Southern.

Call, phone or write A. C. Briscoe, President, or L. W. Arnold, Vice President, 11 Whitehall street, Atlanta, Ga. Both phones. Night class also.—(adv.)

Chalmers Lynite Pistons

An Evidence of Chalmers Quality

12½-Ounce Pistons

Chalmers pistons weigh only twelve and a half ounces each. About one-third the weight of cast iron pistons. Each one of these Chalmers pistons is true to its die. All pistons are exactly equal in weight.

No greater variation than ¼-ounce is tolerated in any of the reciprocating parts of the Chalmers.

Importance of Lightness

A light piston insures smoothness and power. Lighter pistons allow other motor parts of corresponding lightness. Lynite pistons reduce the strain on the bearings 160 pounds per square inch over the cast iron piston.

The wonderful smoothness of the Chalmers at all speeds is largely due to the lightness of the pistons. So also is the motor's remarkable power.

Compression—Power

Chalmers pistons are provided with three rings of uniform tension, each three-sixteenths of an inch wide. This means better compression—more power.

Below the lowest ring there are oil relief holes to prevent any excess of oil from reaching the combustion chambers.

The above is what we mean by quality in Pistons. The kind of quality you need in the pistons in the car you buy. And the kind of quality you GET in the Chalmers.

GOOD ROADS DAY AT CHAUTAUQUA

Good Roads Meeting Will Be Presided Over by Judge Patterson — Atlanta Autoists to Visit Chautauqua.

Macon, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—Tomorrow is Good Roads day at the Chautauqua of the South, and several hundred good roads enthusiasts from different parts of the state will be in Macon to participate. Among them will be a party of autoists from Atlanta, who left that city yesterday for the run to Macon.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held at which speakers will discuss plans for a comprehensive road building campaign for Georgia and the best materials to be used. The conference will be presided over by Judge T. E. Patterson, chairman of the Georgia Highway commission. The local arrangements are in charge of W. T. Anderson, one of the Dixie highway commissioners for Georgia. The conference is not called to further the work of any single highway, but in the interest of road development in Georgia generally.

Tomorrow at noon there will be a parade of local and visiting automobiles headed by a band. At 1 o'clock there will be a luncheon at Hotel Dempsey, during which talks will be made by good roads workers. Music will be furnished for this occasion.

The day promises to be one of the biggest of the Chautauqua of the South. In addition to the good roads celebration, the music faculty of Cox college will give a concert at Chautauqua Auditorium at 2:30 in the afternoon and at night the Russian symphony orchestra, conducted by Modest Altschuler, will give the first of a series of thirteen concerts. The orchestra is composed of fifty musicians and has been brought to Macon at an expense of $5,500.

Prohibition Day.

Saturday is to be Prohibition Day and plans are being made by Mrs. August Burghard, the local chairman, for one of the biggest temperance demonstrations that this state has ever known. At 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning there will be a meeting at the City Auditorium, with Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, national prohibition lecturer, presiding.

At 2:30 o'clock at Chautauqua Auditorium will be held the college students processional and rally, presided over by Governor N. E. Harris. The prohibition processional of college students and young people's organizations will be in charge of Mrs. Lelia A. Dillard, of Oxford, president of the Georgia W. C. T. U., and H. L. Driscoll, of Mercer, president of the Georgia Intercollegiate Prohibition association. National flags, prohibition and college colors, pennants and banners, songs, rally cries and demonstrations will feature the celebration.

College Students to Attend.

All of the Bessie Tift girls, a large delegation from the Georgia Normal and Industrial college, Emory college boys, the entire student bodies of Mercer and Wesleyan, the Lanier High school and the Georgia-Alabama business college, headed by two bands, will participate in the parade.

The features of the chautauqua today consisted of a conference of social service workers, and a recital at Chautauqua Auditorium tonight by Miss Anna Case, prima donna of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, who was accorded the greatest reception yet given to any chautauqua attraction. The crowd that heard Miss Case completely filled the big auditorium.

AMUSEMENTS

Aveling and Lloyd.

(At the Forsyth.)

Aaron Hoffman is the author of the fine bit of patter that Chapple Aveling and Al Lloyd, both apparently just "natural born" comedians, are offering as one of the big features of the Keith vaudeville show at the Forsyth this week. Aveling and Lloyd are easily two of the funniest on record. Genevieve Cliff, talented young actress who made such a success in "Baby Mine," is headliner in the strikingly staged sketch, "A Breath of Old Virginia." Other stellar features include Mlle. Maleta Bonconi, accomplished European violinist; Marshall Montgomery, greatest of ventriloquists; Edna Sweeney and her diving girls; the Monarch Comedy Four and the Thomas Trio, in an acrobatic novelty.

Musical Attractions.

(At the Grand.)

(At the Rialto.)

The Rialto's spectacular picture, "The Masque of Life," continues to draw crowds to witness the startling thrills which chase each other up and down the reels. The picture is a succession of thrills. It simply works up to the fire scenes in a burning circus building which cost in themselves, nearly a quarter of a million dollars to make, and had a toll of human lives, as well as those of the lions, who, through an accident, were burned to death in the great fire which got far beyond the control of the film makers. The remarkable way in which actors, directors and camera men stuck to their posts and finished the film, in the face of imminent danger, has contributed immeasurably to the striking effects obtained.

"As Men Love."

(At the Alamo Two.)

A picture that gets away from the beaten screen path, and that has a new swing and a refreshing plot will be seen at the Alamo Two today, with House Peters and Myrtle Stedman in the principal roles. J. W. Johnston is a member of the supporting cast. Peters and Johnston have the roles of men who have been chums since boyhood. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will appear today and Saturday in their own "The Great Secret." As an added feature Saturday Manager Schmidt is offering Marguerite Clark, in "The Fortunes of Fifi."

(At the Vaudette.)

World renowned crook, gentleman burglar and super-criminal, Arsene Lupin, the title of the picture to be shown at the Vaudette today, had gained the reputation of being the most slippery, cunning and crafty thief on the continent. Very often he masquerades as Guerchard, the great detective, wins the day and escapes. It is in this guise during an adventure that he assumes the title of Duke de Charmerace and takes over the estate, becoming engaged to the daughter of a great art collector, that he is discovered. How he escapes and finally decides to lead the life of the straight and narrow, makes up one of the most fascinating pictures ever filmed.

"The Money Mill."

(At the Criterion.)

On the bread line of lower New York, among the derelict of life's sea, is hardly the place where an heiress from the Alaska gold fields would be likely to find her mate, yet that is what Dorothy Kelly did in "The Money Mill," the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon special that will be given its first screening in Atlanta at the Criterion theater today and Saturday. The linking of the Klondike gold lands, rich in big free emotions, to the glittering artificial life of New York forms a study in contrasts that forms the great secret of the success of this photo-play. Pathos and tensely dramatic scenes set off the narrative.

(At the Strand.)

Two of the greatest pictures, starring two of the most popular film actresses of the day, form the week-end program at the Strand theater. The photo-play that won fame for Clara Kimball Young, "My Official Wife," a de luxe edition of the great Vitagraph feature, is to be shown today. This is a thrilling story of Russian life, a maze of intrigues, passionate love episodes and beautiful settings. In addition to presenting Miss Young in a role that is exactly suited to her temperament and personality, the cast includes such stars as Earle Williams, and Harry Morey, each in prominent roles. The greatest vampire production ever accredited to Theda Bara is offered Saturday only, "The Tiger Woman."

William S. Hart.

(At the Odeon.)

A western play, full to the brim with action and suspense is "The Square Deal Man" which is at the Odeon theater today and Saturday. This is the latest Triangle play and in it the incomparable William S. Hart portrays a character with whom you will be in sympathy from the very start of the picture. It is a thrilling love story, told in a different manner. Hart is cast in the part of a gambler, one with a big, honest heart, who thought he had killed a man, a big rancher, so he foreswore gambling and tried with all his heart to atone to a girl who did not understand. Against fate, violence and treachery he fought on for vindication and finally wins his point. Hart in this play is again the visaged person who finds the six-shooter the solution to all difficulties.

"The Deemster" Coming.

(At the Rialto.)

A photo-dramatic version of Hall Caine's first novel, "The Deemster," will be presented for the first time in Atlanta at the Rialto theater, Monday evening, April 2. The principal role is played by Derwent Hall Caine, a son of the author, who has made a great personal hit in the role of Dan Mylrea. Conservative book publishers state that this novel has probably had a wider circle of readers, than any other work of fiction excepting "Robinson Crusoe." This story introduced Hall Caine to American readers and it is considered by eminent critics to be one of the most powerful works of realistic fiction in the English language.

STATE RESTS ITS CASE IN TRIAL OF POLLARD

The trial of W. M. Pollard, strike organizer, accused of subornation of perjury, will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock, after a recess throughout Thursday afternoon, at which time the state rested its case.

It is expected now that the case will occupy all of today. A surprise was injected into Thursday's proceedings when the prosecution introduced Judge James A. Dodge, counsel for L. E. Dodgen, the convicted trolley dynamiter, who testified that Pollard had submitted to him a list of names of witnesses who would furnish an alibi for his client, who is also a kinsman. He said he had summoned them in good faith.

Pollard is charged with having aided in the manufacture of the alibi. A number of other strike associates have been indicted by the grand jury on the same charge.

BELGIAN SELLING SOUVENIRS OF WAR TO AID HIS MOTHER

Do you want an interesting souvenir of the great European war?

How would you like to have a "trench" ring made from the fuse tip of an exploded shell, or from a coat button of a soldier, perhaps? Or how would you like to have a pin made from the emblem of a soldier's coat collar?

Here is a fine chance for you to get just such a souvenir and at the same time do a good turn in helping a Belgian soldier support his mother who is still beyond the German lines in Belgium.

The Constitution has received the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

"Dear Sir: I, the undersigned, Ernest Konen, Belgian interned soldier, Twenty-second batterie de place, Baraque 27, Camp 1, Zeist, Holland, take the respectful liberty to write to you in order to ask you to be so kind as to insert the following advertisement in your esteemed newspaper, The Atlanta Constitution.

"In order to assist his poor mother, who is still living in Belgium, where want of food becomes greater and greater, the Belgian soldier wishes, and should be very glad to sell some small articles which he made in the camp, such as rings and brooches, which are indeed fine souvenirs. Those so good as to order some will perform an act of charity. He sells the rings or brooches for 50 cents and requests to join (inclose with orders) measure when ordering rings.

"The soldier, Ernest Konen, thanks sincerely and by anticipation the American people.

"Hoping, dear sir, that you will favor a poor interned soldier, I thank you very much by anticipation. With kindest regards,

"Yours respectfully,
"ERNEST KONON.

SOUTHERN CATTLEMEN MEET HERE WEDNESDAY

The fifth annual convention of the Southern Cattlemen's association, which meets at the Kimball house Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, will take up two very important questions which now confront the people of this section. First, they will investigate the amount of beef cattle which the south is prepared to furnish in event of the mobilization of armies in this locality. Second, they will strive to impress upon the farmers of the south the necessity for raising the greater part of their products at home, not as an economic measure, as heretofore, but as a war measure.

The tremendous growth of the cattle industry below the Ohio river within the life of the association, or during the past five years, has been so marked that southern cattle will be an important factor in the provisioning of the armies mobilized and concentrated in this territory. The numerous local packing houses which have recently been put into operation in Georgia and neighboring states, will also aid greatly in the supplying of troops with necessary meats.

The convention will take vigorous measures to promote and extend the areas of cattle raising, and the introduction of fine blooded strains of beef cattle raising, and the introduction of fine blooded strains of beef cattle. There will be a long list of speakers, drawn from the leading stock men and farm educators in the nation, who will emphasize these points.

SAWMILL ASSOCIATION FIGHTS PROPOSED RATE

The morning at the rate hearing before the state railroad commission Thursday was occupied by the testimony and cross-examination of W. E. Gardner, representing the Georgia-Florida Saw Mill association, protesting against the proposed Georgia commodity rates on lumber. Mr. Gardner took the position that lumber already bears as much of the burden of transportation as it should and that a further increase in the rates would be unjust, and that the proposed Georgia rates would be discriminatory against the south Georgia mills in favor of competitors in other southern states. Mr. Gardner submitted voluminous exhibits to show the justness or unjustness of Georgia rates on lumber, present and proposed, as compared with rates elsewhere.

The exhibits were attacked by Merrel P. Callaway, counsel for the railroads, on the ground that they were irrelevant and unrepresentative.

At the afternoon session Frank Willby, of Savannah, entered a protest against the proposed rates on logs; Mr. Brumby, of the Brumby Chair factory, of Marietta, protested against proposed rates on logs and furniture; Harry T. Moore, of the Atlanta Freight bureau, protested against proposed rates on furniture.

Mr. T. B. French,
Manager Advertising,
Atlanta Constitution,
City.

Dear Sir:

I am advised by B. M. Grant-A. S. Adams Co., renting agents for the Ponce de Leon Apartments, that every apartment and room in our building is occupied by term tenants and that applications for space now coming in are filed upon their waiting list.

While great credit is due to the comfort and facilities afforded by the Ponce de Leon Apartments and to the efficiency of its renting agents, we attribute to The Constitution due credit for this gratifying condition.

Since the apartmemts were opened to the public three years ago, we have used The Constitution, exclusively, as an advertising medium, calling the attention of the public through its columns to vacancies from time to time, with the invariable result that applications promptly absorbed available accommodations.

We have discontinued our advertising in The Constitution simply because we have no more space to offer.

Yours truly,
PONCE DE LEON APARTMENTS,
By R. S. LANG, Secretary

Returned to Mother As Soon as Married, Asserts Young Bride

A story of disillusionment at the altar was narrated in superior court yesterday morning, when divorce proceedings were instituted in behalf of Mrs. Louise Birge, a wife of seventeen years, who says she left the side of her husband almost immediately after the wedding ceremony last January, and who charges that she was intimidated into marrying Nathaniel Birge. It is averred that the bride never tarried for a moment with the groom after the rites had been performed, but returned to her mother, Mrs. Nellie Ford, who at once employed Attorneys Gober and Jackson to obtain an annulment of the marriage.

VAUGHN WOULD PAY EMBEZZLED FUNDS BACK TO COMPANY

Augusta, Ga., March 29.—(Special.) Friends of W. H. Vaughn, who Tuesday entered a plea of guilty to the indictment charging him with embezzlement of $4,800 from the Bryson Cotton Oil company, of which he was president, returned from Harlem, where Vaughn was arraigned Tuesday, determined to help him make good his shortage. Representing the state, associated with Solicitor General Franklin, of Augusta, were Daniel McDougald, of the firm of King & Spalding, counsel for the Bryson Cotton Oil company, and Leonard J. Grossman, attorney for the Chicago Bonding company. Vaughn was represented by John T. West.

Following his plea of guilty, Vaughn asked an opportunity of making good the shortage. In disposing of the case Judge Hammond, of Augusta, said substantial justice might be approximated more nearly if some restitution were made, but if this were done, he said, it would be considered by the court only as a mitigating circumstance. At all events, he said, the crime of embezzlement required a severe sentence, as it is a deliberate and calculating crime, rather than the result of a sudden passion. Judge Hammond announced that if there was no objection he would impose sentence at the next term of court, giving Vaughn the opportunity of doing what he could to make good the money embezzled.

YOUNG BOY'S HEAD IS TORN FROM BODY BY LOAD FROM GUN

Cordele, Ga., March 28.—(Special.)—A negro boy, aged 7 years, was shot to death Tuesday by another negro boy about the same age, on the Byrom farm, at Daphne. The boys had quarreled and one of them fired on the other at close range with a shotgun. The load tore the young negro's head from his body, leaving it hanging by a mere fragment.

It is reported that their parents were at work on the farm and they were left at home with a number of other young negroes. Older negroes told the overseer of the farm that the boy, after being shot, ran a distance of thirty feet from the house into the yard. All the statements were considered incredible by the overseer, who suspects the older negroes.

Georgia Best Prepared For Boll Weevil Battle Of All Infected States

Albany, Ga., March 29.—(Special.)—In the opinion of "Boll Weevil" Burley, who is now working in southwestern Georgia, but who has been fighting the weevil through several states as it moved from Texas eastward, Georgia is better prepared by two years to cope with the cotton pest than any other state over which the weevil army has advanced.

Mr. Burley has just had 32 southwest Georgia counties assigned to him. He is now endeavoring to secure the appointment of county agents wherever they are not already at work, but will endeavor to reach as many farmers as possible with his own "missionary work" where there are no local agents to be had.

Mr. Burley attributes the fact that Georgia is so well prepared to cope with the boll weevil very largely to the low price of cotton in 1914. Depression of the cotton market and uncertainty as to the future did more to cause farmers to enlarge their diversification plans and turn attention to the possibilities of animal industry than did fear of the weevil, he believes.

QUARANTINE ENFORCED IN WAYCROSS HOMES

Waycross, Ga., March 29.—(Special.) Rigid quarantine regulations were put into effect here yesterday by the city health department in an effort to hold down the epidemic of measles and whooping cough.

For a period of ten days no children from any home in which a contagious disease exists will be allowed to attend school or any public gathering.

The measles epidemic has played havoc with school attendance, the records showing a decrease in some grades as high as 30 per cent.

Argentina's Embargo.

Washington, March 29.—Poor crop prospects and limited stocks have forced the Argentine government to put an embargo on the export of wheat and flour, the department of commerce was informed today in a cablegram from Buenos Aires. The drought in Argentina has severely damaged all crops, but wheat has suffered most.

New York, March 29.—Early advances were lost in the cotton market late this afternoon, with May selling off from 19.18 to 19.00 and closing at 19.01. The general list closed steady, net 3 points higher to 5 points lower.

The market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 11 points in response to relatively firm cables. Near months were also influenced by continued shipments from the local stocks, the supply of cotton in warehouses being less than 78,000 bales, or the smallest for this date since 1905. Buying of later deliveries was restricted by the more favorable weather east of the river, but Liverpool was a buyer of old crops, while there was also buying by spot houses of May and July, and the general list soon sold 8 to 17 points net higher.

The advance was then checked by realizing and there were slight reactions followed by renewed firmness during the early afternoon.

The trade buying seemed to be extended to October, which rendered some of the early sellers uneasy and all deliveries but May made new high ground for the day on the second bulge with July selling at 18.99 and October at 18.22, or 17 to 19 points above last night's closing figures. The immediate demand from shorts seemed to have been pretty well supplied on this advance, however, and the market eased off under liquidation, with July reacting to 18.82 and October to 18.00.

Closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest.

The continued dry weather in the southwest may have modified the effect of more favorable conditions east of the river and speculative liquidation of new crop months was said to have been partly absorbed by trade buying against a more active demand for goods. Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to end month calling and apprehensions of inadequate supplies as a result of small imports.

Political uncertainties were considered responsible for the scattering liquidation and except for trade buying, local brokers said the bulk of the day's business probably represented evening-up of old contracts.

Spot cotton quiet; middling 19.30.

New Orleans Prices 3 Up to 3 Off.

New Orleans, March 29.—An unsettled market in cotton prevailed today, none of the features of the session having much influence. Interest was centered on war politics and most traders were in the position of waiting on the opening of congress before attempting new business.

Up to a late hour the market held barely steady at a net advance; but toward the end offerings increased, evidently coming from liquidating longs, and the new crop months were driven slightly under the level of yesterday's close. Last prices were 3 points up to 3 points off, compared to yesterday's last prices.

In the early trading prices rose 11 to 16 points on better cables than due and a small supply of contracts. The report of trouble in Spain had an unsettling effect and, at times, bear traders were inclined to sell on the continued favorable weather in the eastern belt. The result was that the market see-sawed within narrow limits. Late in the day a net decline was established. At the lowest levels prices were 3 points down to 2 points up, net. The unexpected rise of 12 points in spot quotations had a steadying effect for a while, but no real strength developed on it.

SPECIAL STOCKS LEAD DULL MARKET

Thursday's Operations Are Merely Counterpart of Irregular Session Wednesday — Trading Restricted to Professional Element.

New York, March 29.—Except for sporadic movements in special stocks, mainly at higher levels, today's market was a counterpart of the dull and irregular session of the previous day. Trading was again restricted almost wholly to the professional element, which bought or sold according to its caprices, or the exigencies of the hour.

Banking interests were somewhat apprehensive during the morning on the sudden suspension of the market for exchange on the Teutonic centers, but this condition was overcome later, when rates on Berlin and Vienna stiffened substantially. Declaration of martial law in Spain gave rise to further misgivings regarding the general European situation.

Over 60 per cent of the total turnover took place in the forenoon, the last three hours recording an almost steady diminution of operations to the accompaniment of lower quotations, in which rails yielded with the general list.

Next to United States Steel, which ranged between 115⅞ and 114½, closing at 114⅝, a net loss of ¾ of a point, the most active stocks of the day included two newly listed issues—Sinclair Oil and Midvale Steel. Sinclair made an extreme gain of 4 points to 59¾, but Midvale's maximum of 61⅜ was a gain of only half a point over its final quotation on the "curb."

Wilson Packing made the new high record of 83½ on another rise of 6 points and Ohio Gas also sought a higher level on its advance to 132½, with the subscription "rights" at 4⅜, but both failed to hold at top levels. Other specialties and utilities shaded on small offerings and metals, shippings and minor rails were lower by 1 to 2 points.

Motors and leather issues were early features of marked strength, but declined abruptly in the last half hour, with sugars and some of the secondary equipment and supply issues, including petroleums.

General news embraced an analysis of February imports and exports, the latter item aggregating $467,683,406, an increase of almost $66,000,000 over the same month of 1916.

The only noteworthy railway statemen for February was that of the Lehigh Valley railroad showing a net decrease of $644,311.

Bonds were irregular with a decline of 2½ points in Pennsylvania railroad 4½s. Bond sales, par value, aggregated $2,860,000.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, March 29.—(Special.)—Our cablegram stated Liverpool considered there was not cotton enough and that until more offers were received prices would be maintained. Weather throughout the south was clear, which brought selling orders at the moment, when an advance in the afternoon, based on the foreign advices, was under way. The selling proved too much for the local trade to absorb and the decline which followed closed the market a shade under last evening. Advices from New Orleans reported a falling off in the spot demand. On the other hand, cotton is being sold out of our stock in such quantities as to reduce it to small proportions. This factor was dominant in attracting the early buyers. Texas is without rain.
HUBBARD BROS.

New York, March 29.—(Special.)—Buying of May and July on the part of foreign and domestic spot merchants brought about a moderate advance today in this market. The stock of cotton at this port continues to decrease, and as there is little prospect of shipments here from the south to replace this outgo, those short of the summer months find their position uncomfortable. The strength of the old crop exerts an influence on the new and causes a sympathetic advance in October and December.
BOND, M'ENANY & CO.

New Orleans, La., March 29.—(Special.)—With the advent of improved weather in the eastern belt, and, considering the indication of a substantial increase of the acreage in the west, even though the present technical strength of the nearby positions may exercise a stimulating influence, with the uncertainty surrounding the political outlook, we believe present prices discount many things and with the absence of outside support bulls face a difficult proposition to force a substantial advance from this level and maintain it.
SILVAN NEWBERGER & CO.

Sugar.

New York, March 29.—The local market for raw sugar was a little easier today with the demand less active and holders offering a little more freely. Refiners appeared to have supplied their requirements for the time being at least and the only interest shown in the market came from operators who paid 5c, cost and freight, for 25,000 bags of Cubas for last half April shipment and 4 15-16c for 10,000 bags for prompt shipment Cubas, cost and freight. At the close there were further offerings at quoted prices, while buyers seemed unwilling to pay above 4⅞c for prompt shipment.

The market closed steady at 4 15-16 for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 5.95 for centrifugal and 5.08 for molasses.

New York, March 29.—The market for coffee futures a little more than recovered yesterday's losses during today's trading. There was no aggressive or general demand, but offerings were light, while there was some trade buying and possibly a little support from investment sources on a more optimistic view of peace prospects. Opening prices were 1 to 4, closing higher, and active months sold 10 to 12 points above last night's closing figures during the afternono, with July touching 7.86 and December 8.12 in the late trading. Closing prices were at nearly the best point, showing a net advance of 6 to 11 points. Sales, 55,500.

Few fresh offers were reported in the cost and freight market, but it was reported that a bid 9½ had been accepted for Santos 3's and 4's, London credits, but no mention was made of the description.

The official cables reported an advance of 75 reis in the Rio markets. Santos spots were unchanged and futures 23 to 50 reis lower. Brazilian receipts, 16,000; Jundiahy receipts, 9,000.

NEAR RECORD IS MADE IN WHEAT

Prices Soar to Highest of Any Future Delivery Since 1864 — Crop Damage Reports the Cause—Trading Wild—Late Realizing Causes Unsettled Close.

Chicago, March 29.—Highest war prices yet were touched today in the wheat market, the quotation for May delivery jumping to within ⅛c of $1.99 a bushel. Today's record, which resulted from excited rushes to buy, was the topmost ever reached by any future delivery since 1864. Sensational chop damage reports, especially from southern Nebraska, were largely responsible for the new upturn. The market closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3⅞c higher, with May at $1.97⅞ to $1.98⅛, and July at $1.66⅝ to $1.66¾. Corn gained 1⅜ to 1⅞c net, oats ⅛ to 1⅛@¼c and provisions 15c to 27@30c.

Wild trading in wheat developed soon after the start, the speculative crowd being greatly wrought up by reports indicating that 75 per cent of the winter crop in the southern half of Nebraska had been so badly damaged by drouth that the fields were being plowed over and sown to oats and barley.

Kansas reports told also of severe damage, and seemed to imply that unless rain fell soon the yield in many sections might be almost a total failure. The effect of such advices was undoubtedly heightened by the fact that the recent enforcement of an embargo in Argentina had left North America as the only source of breadstuff supply readily available for Europe. The high premiums being paid for cash wheat were taken as pointing clearly to the urgency of the demand and the smallness of stocks at consuming points.

News of a big defeat for the Turks in Palestine acted at one time as something of a check on the wheat bulls, as the disaster to the Moslems suggested a renewed likelihood of the opening of the Dardanelles. However, prices were soon soaring again, and showed no further important reaction until realizing became free in the last hour, and made the pit nervous.

Corn ascended with wheat. All deliveries went to new high price levels for this season's crop. Receipts here were notably small, and rural offerings meager.

Oats came up to within a fraction of the tiptop season values scored last November. Trade broadened and shorts scurried to cover.

Provisions advanced sharply on purchases credited to commission houses and packers and impelled by the upward swing of the hog market and of grain. Lard especially was in demand and like wheat and corn, smashed some of the existing high-price records.

Frank Is Ready for Connie

CRACKERS BATTLE CONNIE TOMORROW

Athletics Will Invade Lair of Frankmen on Saturday Afternoon to Give Locals Their First Practice Game.

Just two more practices now—one this morning and another after Brother Sol has crossed the meridian—and then the Crackers will be ready to stack up against Connie Mack's Athletics, in the first baseball game of the 1917 season for Atlanta.

The boys have been working hard and faithfully, and Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Atlanta fandom is to see what they have to offer in the way of a pennant-winning contingent, against what has been touted as "odds" by our fraters in the far south training camps.

The Athletics are coming here for a series, to be played Saturday, March 31, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 2, 3 and 4. After the supporters of the old home gang have had an opportunity to get hep to the individual class of each son of swat, there is going to be some live doping on the season, because it is certain there will be enough shown by the four games with Connie's aggregation to give everyone an idea of who's who in Crackerland.

Sure of Team.

Frank says he has a jam-up team. Atlanta's sport writers also maintain that he is going to have a first division finish, and the great tribe of fans, after going to Poncey and looking on for several weeks, is also inclined to go abroad upon the asphalt and let the world know that the 23 players under the Frank roof are no slouches.

Charlie doesn't know just who he will start in Saturday's game, and probably will take occasion to do a whole lot of shifting during the course of the encounter. If he does, he will have pleased the audience, because if there ever was a crowd which wants to get absolutely on the inside to find out exactly what we have in our midst, it is the Dutchman's supporters.

In all probability he will start the fracas with one of the recruit pitchers in the box and Niederkorn catching. Munch will romp around first, with Bridwell at second. Of course, Captain Tom Reilly is going to play short, but at third Midkiff is more than likely to be assisted by Loring Thrasher, during part of the game anyway.

Give Brother a Chance.

McDonald, Moran and Mayer will be the outer gardeners, with the probability that one of them will give way for a few innings to Ike Thrasher, the other half of the G. M. C. legacy.

Connie's crew by this time should have rounded into form as only a big league aggregation can with the work it has, and Atlanta will almost be willing to concede that they've got it on us at the jump, but not at the landing.

Grandstand seats will sell at the old four-bit figure, and berths in the fans' paradise will retail at two-bits the seat. The game will be according to Hoyle, with a peanut man on your left, toe, a popcorn gazabo treading the tenderest spots of your right and a soda pop vender playing telephone post between you and the game.

Come out early, boys, and avoid the rush. In spite of what you see on the diamond, it is safe to say you will be able to glance along the players' bench and see C. Frank smile once anyway, and that's worth the price of admission.

Darcy vs. Smith.

CONTINUATION of former stories: Les Darcy, of Australia, and Jeff Smith, of New York, will fight twenty rounds to a decision in New Orleans May 4. The bout will be for the middleweight championship of the world, weight 158 pounds. Darcy is to receive 30 per cent of the gate receipts, win or lose.

U. T. Defeats Indiana.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE has opened its 1917 baseball season in highly commendable style, defeating the University of Indiana, 5 to 2. Indiana will come here the latter part of the week for a game with Tech.

Robertson on Homers.

DAVE ROBERTSON, former Gull player, is creating quite a sensation in the western circuit. Dave is hitting home runs in every park the New York Giants are playing.

Submarine Training Next.

ALL big eastern colleges have announced that their annual spring regattas will be called off in the event of a declaration of war on the part of the United States. It looks as if they ought to fall in line with baseball teams and institute submarine training.

Will Aid Red Cross.

ACTIONS on the part of big league magnates in offering to donate part of their year's gate receipts to Red Cross funds are to be commended by every sport writer in the country. The aid from ball players and managers in case of war would not be one of the least on the callendar.

Pledge Not to Attend.

CHATTANOOGA is having a little bit of a rumpus now over Sunday baseball. According to reports from the home of the Lookouts, someone with an eye to take all the joy out of life, has conceived the plan of circulating a petition for signers to pledge themselves not to attend a game during the season. The funny part is that those who have signed thought they were only doing so for Sundays. Instead of that they have obligated themselves to stay away from the park the entire season, and there are about 1,000 of them.

More Opener Talk.

MORE opening game stuff is drifting into the Cracker camp, showing that other cities of the circuit are making what might be called elaborate preparations to win attendance cups. Atlantans are going to busy themselves within the next several days to get a corner on a 15,000 attendance on April 12 and cinch the rag.

The Nineteenth Hole.

IT WAS so warm beating around the course at Druid Hills Thursday that the nineteenth hole proved a popular one, in spite of the fact that it was being conducted under the strict letter of the latest bone dry clause.

Bob Purman Arrives.

BOB PURMAN, special sport writer for the Newspaper Enterprise association, was another member of the newspaper fraternity to drop in on the big golf tourney Thursday. Purman with Grantland Rice and others (?) formed quite a distinguished gallery of scribes. Out of consideration for Messrs. Purman and Rice the others needn't be mentioned.

"Manyana" Is Right.

FRANK'S Crackers have joined the Mexican brigade. "Manyana" is a great word because "Manyana" the Crackers will take on the White Elephants at Ponce de Leon park for the first practice game of the 1917 baseball season. Will you be there?

Wins Golf Tournament

PERRY ADAIR,

Who won the first annual invitation golf tournament at Druid Hills Golf club. Young Adair defeated a long string of crack golfers in this tournament by playing a good consistent game all the way.

Perry Adair Wins Finals In Invitation Tournament; Big Gallery Is on Hand

By Dick Jemison.

Perry Adair, Atlanta's brilliant young golfer, added another trophy to his already long list yesterday by defeating Louis Jacoby, of New Orleans, by one up, in a gruelling match.

The match was the finals in the first flight of the first invitation golf tournament of the Druid Hills golf tourney, and was followed by one of the largest and most enthusiastic galleries that has ever witnessed a golf match in Atlanta.

This brilliant gallery, listing among its number many of Atlanta's most prominent business men and society women, were treated to some splendid golf to repay for their trudging over the eighteen holes.

Play Warms Up.

Young Adair turned two up and then won the tenth hole, making it three up. But Jacoby, fighting with that doggedness that has marked his work all through the tournament, decreased the lead to one by the thirteenth hole.

With a beautiful recovery and a long put he halved the fourteenth and squared the match on the fifteenth hole, which he won. Then by a beautiful sliced second shot, played with a brassie on the sixteenth, he squared that hole.

His tee shot on the short seventeenth was into the creek, while Adair was on the green. Close to the bank, with a rock preventing his shot, Jacoby showed his gameness by making the attempt, but failing to get his ball out, conceded the hole, making him dormie one.

Adair got away from the tee on the eighteenth in splendid style, which Jacoby hooked into the rough. He played his second well out on the fairway, while Adair sliced his into the rough. Jacoby's third was into the woods again, while Adair's was over the green.

Jacoby shot his fourth onto the green, Adair overran the cup with his fourth, and they were playing even. Jacoby putted boldly for the cup, the ball striking the back door, but refusing him. Adair missed his put, giving them a half, and Adair the winner of the match by the close margin of one up.

The Seventeenth.

It was coincident that the seventeenth hole in the afternoon round should cost Jacoby the match just as the same hole in the morning round gave him the match when he claimed the hole on a technicality from Tom Prescott, who thoughtlessly grounded his club in the sand.

Adair was given an ovation by the gallery and greeted with handshakes from all sides, while Jacoby came in for his part of the praise for his game uphill fight, and many were the expressions of regret that his bold last put, an attempt to square the match, failed to sink.

John G. Anderson, of New York, won the defeated eight by defeating Mr. C. B. Mott, of Atlanta, in the finals after a nineteen-hole match.

C. H. Ridley won the second flight by defeating C. V. Rainwater, one up.

P. L'Engle won the third flight by defeating Dr. Guy King, four up and two to play.

C. E. Vosberry won the fourth flight by defeating Russell Bridges, 3 up and 2 to play.

Trophies Presented.

The handsome trophies which were presented to the winners and runners-up of each flight, to the low medalist and to the members of the winning team in the team match, were presented in the club house shortly after the Adair-Jacoby match was finished.

The result of all the matches played Thursday were as follows:

Perry Adair defeated V. R. Smith, 3 up and 2 to play.

War Declaration Will Not Affect Southern League

President R. H. Baugh Says Mobilization of a Million Men Might Bring Larger Crowds to Games of the Season.

In an interview with The Constitution Thursday morning, President R. H. Baugh, of the Southern league, asserted that in the event war is declared it will have no effect upon organized baseball for this season, and certainly will not affect the schedue of the Southern league for some time to come at least.

Mr. Baugh is in Atlanta attending the first annual invitation tournament of the Druid Hills Golf club, and it was while following one of the championship fights that the question was put to the Southern league mogul.

"How will baseball be affected in case of war?" questioned Mr. Baugh in return. "I don't think that a declaration of war, or the European crisis will have any effect at all upon the schedules of organized baseball leagues, and least of all upon the Southern league.

"Even if the president gains the right to declare war and calls for a million volunteers, I hardly think the playing of the Southern league will be affected, for in case even a considerable per cent of the players enlisted, which is, of course, not probable, there would be plenty of men left in the big squads now being tried out in the Southern league camps to keep up the high standard of southern baseball.

"There is one thing mobilization and war might do. It might bring out larger crowds to the games, because whenever there is a game played in the vicinity of a mobilization camp or barracks, you could bet on it that the players would be there.

"No, I don't see any way the war could affect the league this season.

"Things are in great shape for a banner season with the Southern league," continued Mr. Baugh, "and I look for some of the best games of the league's history this year."

When questioned relative to the recent trouble between Manager Charlie Frank and President Heinemann, of the New Orleans club, Mr. Baugh asserted that that trouble has been settled.

"You can just say," said Mr. Baugh, "that the Frank-Heinemann trouble is all settled and there will be nothing more to come of it at all."

Mr. Baugh has been one of the most prominent guests of the tournament, and has aided in swelling the lists of distinguished visitors, who have been at Druid Hills during the last several days.

The Cost of An Audit

While the cost of an audit must be based upon each specific case, the expense to the client is always far less than the value to him, and low also in proportion to the charge for other professional services.

Considered from the standpoint of satisfaction alone, it is more than worth the inconsiderable expense; while in frequent cases it has meant the saving of thousands of dollars which would otherwise have been lost through fraud or error.
